K HAS NEW FORMULA FOR SUMMIT TALKS

LONDON (UPI)—An Iron Curtain diplomat reported today that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has a new summit formula which would eliminate the disarmament issue from the next meeting of the Big Four.

The source said Khrushchev has in mind a "two-tier" strategy which would call for: A meeting of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to discuss the Berlin issue and the problem of Germany in general.

A much wider meeting, including neutrals and the new nations that are emerging, to negotiate on global disarmament.

Behind the strategy lies Khrushchev's apparent unwillingness to limit disarmament talks to the Big Four powers.

It also is considered a conciliatory gesture toward Red China.

Jobless Benefits For Widows, Illness Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Members of Parliament today proposed extensions of unemployment insurance to cover a wider range of beneficiaries.

Paul Martin, MP for Essex East, gave notice of a resolution asking the government to consider extending unemployment insurance benefits to Canadians who are unemployed because of illness.

Gabriel Roberge (L-Megantic) proposed a resolution calling on the government to extend unemployment insurance benefits to the widow of any Canadian worker entitled to receive them.

Other back-bench members are proposing the federal government go deeper into the field of education.

Notice was given today of resolutions calling for tax exemptions for tuition fees, encouragement for technical schooling, and a system of national scholarships.

Mervyn Hardie (L-Mackenzie River) proposed a resolution to legalize lotteries in Canada for raising money for hospitals and education.

Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming) gave notice of a new, wider and more modern bill to govern divorces.

He said in an interview the proposed measure is patterned after legislation now in force in Australia and New Zealand. It would permit dissolution and annulment of marriage in cases of cruelty, desertion, chronic alcoholism, and insanity lasting for periods of two years or more.

It would also make it possible for residents of a province—such as Quebec and Newfoundland—which has no divorce court to go to a neighboring province and obtain a divorce.

ADOPT NEW PROCEDURES Under the measure, the judge or marriage counsellor appointed by the divorce court would be required to try to save the marriage.

The bill, Mr. Peters said, also provides a formula for care and custody of the children of a divorced couple.

"We will have to adopt some new divorce procedures, or at least start to work towards a real solution to the problem we now have, when adultery is the only ground for divorce and we know some cases are rigged," Mr. Peters said.

He also proposed a bill, submitted annually by the CCF group for a number of years, to transfer Parliament's jurisdiction in divorce to the Exchequer Court of Canada, sitting in Ottawa.

Mr. Peters said the CCF would prefer to see the first bill passed.

Columbia Hydro Talks Nov. 23-24

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canada-British Columbia liaison committee on the Columbia River will meet in Ottawa Nov. 23-24, Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton said today.

Fulton, who headed the Canadian negotiating team which recently reached agreement with the United States on a Columbia treaty, said financial arrangements for construction in B.C. as well as treaty details would be discussed with the provincial representatives.

'Disturbed Night'

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill, 85, who suffered a fall at home Tuesday, had a "rather disturbed night," it was announced today.

U.S. Move In Caribbean Rouses Storm With Reds

TEARS MARK FAREWELL

Ending an eight-year legal battle against deportation as a Communist, William A. Mackie, 51, bids goodbye to sister Lillian, who breaks into tears, at Portland Airport today. Mackie was sent by plane to Finland, where he was born and lived only for eight months. (AP Wirephoto.)

'WAKE UP VICTORIA' SAYS MAYOR

Mayor Percy Scuirrah said today he has never known so much apathy towards Victoria's civic elections as exists at present.

"I'll be surprised if we get 40 per cent of our people to vote on election day," he told the "Stop the Rot" urban renewal conference at the Empress Hotel. (See page 17.)

"There is no sign of any real interest and this is a most deplorable state of affairs. Municipal business is everyone's business. It goes down to the very grass roots of our democracy.

"I only wish Victorians would wake up to their responsibilities."

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A three-judge federal tribunal today refused to lift orders integrating New Orleans public schools, but left the door open "for consideration" of a state request.

The judges adjourned a three-hour hearing and left in effect orders that have integrated two city elementary schools for the last five days.

CALDOUGH REMANDED

LONDON (Reuters)—Two men accused of conspiring to defraud investors in Canada were remanded until Nov. 25 when they appeared in court today.

The remand was granted after the prosecuting attorney, A. Babington, said the Crown was awaiting papers from Canada, not likely to be received for some weeks yet.

The men are Roland Smith, 40, described as a publicity assistant, of Sheffield, England, and Frederick Caldough, 35, an investment dealer, formerly of Vancouver, but now of London.

Smith was allowed continuing bail of $5,000 ($16,900). Caldough, unable to raise $11,000 ($30,000), was remanded in custody.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—

An eight-year legal battle against deportation that twice went to the United States Supreme Court ended today when William A. Mackie left Portland by plane for Finland.

Some 50 persons were at the airport to protest the deportation.

The immigration service ordered the deportation of Mackie, 51, under the McCarran-Walter Act for Communist activities in the 1930s. Mackie denied he ever was a Communist.

Hamish Scott MacKay, 55, who like Mackie has waged a long-time battle against deportation on the same charges, was scheduled to board a plane tonight for Vancouver.

MacKay, a carpenter, has a wife, two sons, a grandson, his mother and brother here. He came to the United States when he was 21.

"I don't know what I will do in Vancouver," he said. "I will stay there a while. My wife and sons are going to stay here; at least until I see what develops up there."

Mackie, a house painter, was born while his parents were visiting in Finland and was brought to this country when he was eight months old.

WATCHED CLOSELY

Mackie was kept in close custody by immigration service men while the demonstration against his deportation was going on. His sister, Lillian, was near a tearful collapse.

Mackie said he speaks only a few words of Finnish and does not know what he will do once there.

The deportations have brought widespread protests, including an appeal to President Eisenhower.

"I hope the American people bring me back soon," Mackie said. "This is my home."

Only last week the last appeal of the two men for a stay was rejected by the Supreme Court, which declined to reopen the case.

The two men said they had joined organizations working for unemployment relief in the depression. Twice their cases lost by split decisions in the U.S. Supreme Court.

New Oil Imports Cut Proposed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Announcement of a public hearing on an interior department proposal for a further cut in oil imports, to be effective Jan. 1, caught some oil industry spokesmen by surprise.

They had expected the proposal would go through without further ado. And perhaps the oil import administration, an agency of the interior department, had the same expectation. But officials of the agency aren't saying.

Only a proclamation by President Eisenhower was needed to make the proposal effective. The department announced the proposal Oct. 27 and there was general expectation, at least among segments of the oil industry, that the president would issue the proclamation within a short time.

But it was not forthcoming and now the department has called a hearing for Monday to get the views of supporters and opponents of the proposal. Elmer F. Bennett, undersecretary of the interior, will conduct it.

The pending proposal calls for cutting imports by an average of 60,000 barrels daily east of the Rocky Mountains. Imports of residual oil would not be affected.

'World Peace Threat'

HAVANA (AP)—The Fidel Castro regime charged today that U.S. naval patrols in the Caribbean were an intervention in Latin American affairs, a grave threat to world peace and a smokescreen for an attack on Cuba.

President Eisenhower Thursday ordered U.S. warships and planes to be ready to seek out and prevent Communist-led attacks from abroad on Guatemala and Nicaragua.

The President acted on the written request of the two governments, targets in the last week of unsuccessful uprisings which they charged were assisted by Cubans.

The action came as plots and possible uprisings were reported in two other countries—Bolivia and El Salvador.

The U.S. state department said warships, including at least four destroyers and the aircraft carrier Shangri-La, were already patrolling the high seas between Cuba and the Central American coast.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John Kennedy met with the Central Intelligence Agency chief today for a briefing on the tense Caribbean area.

The department said, however, that any action against invasion forces would be limited to the three-mile territorial waters of Guatemala and Nicaragua.

Three Cuban newspapers carried a story by the Soviet news agency Tass warning of invasion plots against Cuba being prepared in Nicaragua and Guatemala.

TRAUGHT WITH DANGER A Moscow radio broadcast recorded in London said the U.S. navy alert is "fraught with the danger of a military conflict."

The broadcast, noting the White House statement that the move was requested by the Guatemalan and Nicaraguan governments, said:

"The rotten anti-popular regimes of these two countries can exist only with U.S. support."

The semi-official newspaper Revolution ran a huge banner headline saying: "U.S. endangers world peace: Yankee military occupation of Central America could be step toward attacking Cuba."

El Mundo's banner said: "U.S. intervenes in internal struggles in Guatemala and Nicaragua."

In Peking, Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China charged that U.S. air and naval patrols in the Caribbean were armed threats against Cuba.

Chou spoke at a reception for a visiting Cuban economic delegation headed by Maj. Ernesto "Che" Guevara, president of the National Bank of Cuba, Peking Radio said.

Chou said the American move was a means to "threaten Cuba further" by force of arms. He promised Red China will continue to support Cuba. He did not specify what kind of support.

The reaction of Cuban officials and the government-controlled press and radio was indignant. The newspaper La Calle said the president's action was an intervention in Guatemala and Nicaragua and a grave threat to world peace. SOVIET BLOC LOSES

UN to Debate Kasavubu Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly decided today to plunge immediately into a debate on the seating of a Congolese delegation headed by President Joseph Kasavubu. The decision was a defeat for the Soviet bloc and an African group led by Ghana.

The vote was on a motion by Ghana to adjourn the debate until after a UN conciliation commission had a chance to seek a settlement of the Congo conflict. The motion was defeated by a vote of 36 in favor, 51 against and 11 abstentions.

Ghana's permanent delegate, Alex Quaison-Sackey, had moved for a further delay in the seating of the Congolese delegation headed by President Kasavubu.

Ghana, along with some other Asian and African countries and the Soviet bloc, sought the seating of a rival

SEEKS CONGO PARLEY

The adjournment proposal came amid these other developments:

1. President Fulbert Youlou of the neighboring Congo, whose capital is Brazzaville, called for a conference of African heads of government to seek a solution of the conflict in the other Congo, whose capital is Leopoldville.

2. Kasavubu accused Lumumba of deliberately using terrorism as a weapon to aid in an alleged plan to set up a dictatorship.

Death Penalty Bills From Back Benchers

OTTAWA (CP)—A move from the Commons back benches to abolish the death penalty for murder was put before the House again today.

How far its sponsors will push it likely will depend on the nature of the government's own bill dealing with the subject, promised in the Throne Speech Thursday.

Frank McGee (PC—Scarborough) gave formal notice he will introduce again his bill to do away with the death penalty for all crimes except wartime treason.

A two-day debate on the bill last session did not come to a vote, but showed a wide split of opinion among members.

John Drysdale (PC—Burnaby-Richmond) also gave notice he will present again his bill which would abolish the death penalty for certain types of murder, such as crimes of passion, while retaining the supreme penalty for premeditated murder and slayings that occur in the commission of other crimes of violence. This is in line with recent legislation adopted in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Drysdale's bill also would substitute lethal gas for hanging as the method of execution.

The government disclosed in the Throne Speech Thursday that it will present its own legislation on capital punishment.

There was no hint of what specific proposals the government has in mind. Informed speculation was that it might follow the general lines of Mr. Drysdale's proposal.

Another measure sponsored by Mr. McGee would do away with use of the lash and strap as a possible punishment for certain crimes.

Judges Bill Passed By U.K. Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons today formally passed without discussion a bill to provide that the judges of the superior courts of Canada shall in future retire at the age of 75. The bill now goes to the House of Lords before receiving the royal assent.

THOSE UNDER 14, THAT IS!

'Topsy-Sweet' Tipplers Cut Off

LONDON (CP)—British children have had the liquor laws tightened around them. From now on, tipplers under 14 years of age are going to be cut off.

Their only legal source of booze has been in the form of "tipsy sweets"—candy with alcoholic centres.

Providing the kids had the capacity for the chocolate casing, and the money to buy these somewhat expensive continental imports, it was possible for them to chew their way into an elated frame of mind. In fact one manufacturer advertised, with apparent pride, that its products contained "enough alcohol to make children tipsy."

Well, in future this will be a privilege to be enjoyed only by the older tipplers—those over 14. And even these veterans will have to buy it from stores licensed to sell alcoholic beverages.

Dennis Vosper, Home Office under-secretary, gave this assurance in the House of Commons Thursday after hearing several members attack previous controls, or lack of them. Vosper explained that until now the centres of the candy were not in liquid form and therefore beyond the control of licensing laws. But now all these candies did have liquid centres and controls could be applied.

Vosper said he had sampled one that morning. "Hold on to that dispatch box," he was told by Harriet Slater, Labor member for Stoke-on-Trent. "I, too, sampled them and they were very strong."

THRONE SPEECH

Sort of Grab-Bag—Gordon

TORONTO (CP)—Economic Minister Walter Gordon, who headed the Liberal government's royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, said today the present government's program for the new parliamentary session does not come to grips with Canada's fundamental problems.

Commenting on the throne speech, he said that "it didn't tell us how we are going to produce more of the things we need to help manufacturing and ease unemployment."

He said some of the proposals are worthwhile, such as those to aid the construction industry and to stimulate adult vocational and technical training.

"But the speech seems to be a sort of grab-bag—there's a little bit of something for everyone. I just wonder whether it means an election for 1961."

TORONTO (CP)—Federal loans to universities for construction of student residences will have little effect since universities are not anxious to borrow, Dr. Claude Bissell, University of Toronto president, said today. Such loans were proposed in the speech from the throne.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Retail Merchants Association of Canada has volunteered its assistance and support for the government's plans to assist expanding small businesses, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had received the offer in a telegram from David A. Gilbert, national general manager of the association.

TORONTO (CP)—C. A. Ashforth, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, Thursday night welcomed the federal government's proposed government-guaranteed bank loans for small businesses.

"I think the government is hitting at a place that might be effective in relieving unemployment," he said. "Most banks now have sufficient money available to make loans in this field."

In the last 10 years, the court at Aylesbury was told Thursday, the 25-year-old mortuary keeper bluffed his way into 500 hospitals. Though perfectly fit, he was cut open by surgeons dozens of times.

Hatt, it was explained, has an obsession known as Munchausen Syndrome—named after an 18th century German baron who invented fantastic stories about himself.

Hatt was arrested because he drove a truck dangerously in an effort to get back into a hospital.

The judge ordered him restricted—of all places—to a hospital under the Mental Health Act. This visit is likely to last 10 years, a doctor said.

DENTON, Tex.—A North Texas State College English class on folklore and what this country once was like was asked by Dr. George Hendricks, "Can you imagine 1,000 wolves running across this campus?"

"I most certainly can," replied one pretty coed. "Would not it be wonderful?"

LONDON—A dentist lost more than $25 in fees when his patient complained to the Essex health service his false teeth wobbled so much his eating was curtailed, causing his weight to drop 28 pounds.

LA PORTE, Ind.—A 12-year-old girl slipped into line Wednesday as the 300 pupils at Riley School returned to classes after leaving because of a fire in the basement.

But the girl's teacher noticed the sixth grade pupil had not been present when the alarm sounded. Then the girl's story came out.

She had arrived on time for the start of classes but had been followed by her pet dog. By the time she got the dog home and returned, she was an hour late and didn't want to walk into class alone "because everybody would stare."

Instead she entered the basement and thought about it.

She spotted a life-size scarecrow left over from a Halloween party. She lit some paper from a gas range, set fire to the scarecrow and hurried out. A janitor smelled smoke and with the help of firemen brought the blaze under control before it could spread.

Juvenile authorities are considering the case.

CONSCRIPTION ENDS IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Conscription for the British armed forces, due to end Dec. 31, was ended Thursday, Labor Minister John Hare, disclosed today in a parliamentary answer.

"It has been found convenient to complete the arrangements during November," he said.

In future Britain will rely on voluntary recruitment. Compulsory military service in peacetime was first introduced in Britain in 1939, shortly before the outbreak of the Second World War.

British subjects between the ages of 18 and 26 ordinarily resident in Britain were, with certain limited exceptions, liable to serve for two years in one of the armed forces.

BANKERS TO WAIT AND SEE

Loan Plan Fine If No 'Hedging'

Federal government plan to initiate guaranteed bank loans to finance additions and improvements to small business premises and equipment, announced in the Throne Speech, was greeted with interest by Victoria bankers and businessmen.

However, most said they would have to have full details on the plan before they could tell what it might mean to business.

A. E. Walters, manager of the Bank of Montreal, pointed out it is sometimes the case that government guarantees are so hedged with regulations and restrictions that by the time they're translated into practical terms, many can't fit into their framework.

HIGH RATE

Mr. Walters said the chartered banks' capacity to lend must also be taken into consideration.

Rate of commercial loans to deposits is now, at the high of 54 per cent, he said, which means if there is considerable demand by small businesses for loans some further government action to make funds available would be needed.

In the Victoria area, most people have been getting close to what they have needed in the way of bank loans. Most banks have reassessed their big contingent loan accounts and thus freed more funds for small borrowers.

BRIDGE GAP

C. L. Snyder, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, said the government plan would be helpful if it bridged the gap between the Industrial Development Bank and the requirements of small businesses which were not eligible under IDB loan regulations.

Aubrey Kent, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, noted that the Victoria delegation to the Canadian Chamber conference in Calgary recently had pressed for broadening of government-backed loans to cover tourist industry businesses such as motels and resorts.

He hoped the new plan will include this and said that in general the chamber favors any move to widen the scope of borrowing for the small businessman.

WEEK RECESS

School Storm Given Breather

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A school recess for a week, starting Monday, promised a breathing spell for New Orleans in the bitter battle over integration.

The recess was announced late Thursday night by Dr. James Redmond, public school superintendent. It will permit teachers to attend teacher association meetings in Baton Rouge Monday through Wednesday. Pupils will observe U.S. Thanksgiving holidays Thursday and Friday and classes will not resume until Nov. 28.

The New Orleans school board Thursday asked suspension of a federal court order directing school integration and a hearing on the motion was set for today before a three-judge panel.

The suspension plea was filed after four days of tension over admission last Monday of four small Negro girls to two white schools. Unruly demonstrations, sporadic violence and an almost complete boycott by white students of the two schools followed.

The three Negro first graders at McDonogh No. 19 arrived today a few minutes before the school bell escorted by three federal marshals. Reporters and police did not see any white child enter the school.

At William Frantz School, the lone Negro pupil entered at 9:20 a.m. also escorted by federal marshals. A handful of spectators jeered. Three white pupils were seen to enter the school earlier.

U.S. District Judge Skelly Wright, who signed the integration order, has overridden several moves by the legislation to halt racial mixing.

The three-judge panel which includes Wright, also is expected to hear two other cases involving New Orleans schools.

One is Wright's order restraining the legislature and top state officials from interfering with the integration move. The other is a contempt citation Wright issued against Shelby Jackson, state superintendent of education. The judge said a school holiday ordered last Monday by Jackson, the effective date of the integration order, was contemptuous interference.

Troops were reported mobilized in La Paz, capital of Bolivia, as a precaution against a possible uprising. Communications were cut between La Paz and Cochabamba, the country's second largest city.

Demonstrators marched on the police station and burned transportation offices. Disturbances also were reported in Santa Cruz, a rubber centre on the Brazilian border 330 miles southeast of La Paz.

The military junta ruling El Salvador, southern neighbor of Guatemala, reported Thursday night it had thwarted a revolutionary plot. It gave no details. Unofficial reports said four army colonels were placed under house arrest.

President Miguel Ydigoras of Guatemala was given an enthusiastic reception in Puerto Barrios, chief Caribbean port, after the last of 300 rebels were put to flight, apparently escaping to the hills of Honduras to the north.

A member of Guatemala's congress, Manuel Orellana Portilla, said he would introduce a move to declare war on Cuba if proof of Cuban meddling is presented.

The government of Costa Rica, southern neighbor of Nicaragua, said it found documents linking the revolt in Nicaragua with Cuba and communism.

For weeks Castro officials have been charging that "mercenaries" were being assembled and drilled in Central American countries for a U.S.-financed invasion of Cuba.

Plots and uprisings were reported afoot in El Salvador and Bolivia Friday even as the last embers of revolt appeared snuffed out in Guatemala and Nicaragua.

Troops were reported mobilized in La Paz, capital of Bolivia, as a precaution against a possible uprising. Communications were cut between La Paz and Cochabamba, the country's second largest city.

'CONSTANT VIGILANCE' NEEDED, SEATO WARNS

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—Military advisers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization today stressed the need for "constant vigilance" to counter military attacks and subversion in the treaty area.

The military advisers from the eight member nations of the organization issued a communique after three days of discussion centred on "the Communist threat to South Viet Nam" and the situation in revolt-torn Laos.

French Government Faces Censure Motion

PARIS (Reuters)—Legislators opposing President de Gaulle's plan to give France its own independent nuclear striking force today put forth a censure motion against the government in the National Assembly.

The censure motion was signed by 66 deputies—25 Socialists, 24 Conservatives, Independents and 17 Radicals.

This is more than the one-tenth of the assembly of 552 deputies required for a censure motion to be valid.

Premier Michel Debre staked his government's life on the bill Thursday after the Senate and the assembly's defence committee rejected the bill as it stood.

Defeat for the government today would trigger national elections at a time when President Charles de Gaulle plans a nation-wide referendum to gain backing for his "Algerian Algeria" policy.

Canada Control Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Government-guaranteed bank loans for small business and more encouragement for Canadian ownership and control of Canadian industry were promised in the throne speech Thursday.

The speech, the government's statement of its legislative intentions, also said that foreign-controlled Canadian business and labor organizations will be required to make information public about their operations.

It said that substantial additional employment can be created if small business in Canada is encouraged to expand. A bill authorizing government guarantees for bank loans to small business to finance additional improvements to their business premises and equipment would be introduced early in the session.

WOULD AID EMPLOYMENT

The government is convinced "that additional medium-term credit facilities for small business would enable many private projects to go forward this winter all across Canada, providing substantial additional employment."

"Moreover, this addition to our credit legislation will constitute a continuing stimulus to the growth of Canadian private enterprise."

Three paragraphs of the speech forecast important business legislation. Parliament would be asked to consider:

1. Means to encourage a greater participation by Canadians in the ownership and control of industry and resources in Canada.
 2. Legislation requiring disclosure of information by business and labor organizations in Canada controlled from outside Canada.
 3. Legislation to enlarge the investment and other powers of insurance companies.
- The Diefenbaker government, and its predecessor, has tried by persuasion to encourage foreign-owned branch plants in Canada to use more top Canadian executive talent. The throne speech said Parliament will be asked to consider "means" by which more of this can be done in future.
- One proposal has been to require Canadian branch operations of foreign companies to issue public financial statements covering their Canadian operations. The speech indicated the same rules would be applied to Canadian branches of international labor unions.

Election Tone to Throne Speech

OTTAWA (CP) — The breadth and scope of the government's economic plans presented in the throne speech Thursday had all the earmarks of an impending election, especially if tax cuts materialize in the pre-Christmas budget as an additional fillip to arrest a dip in the economy.

However, such speculation was discounted by informants who said the program isn't intended to indicate that. Observers suggested the government has moved into a position where it could call an early election on the basis of the planned record at this session or wait a year or so to claim as an accomplishment any economic improvement that may come along.

Today the Commons met largely for the final opening formalities; addresses by Donald MacInnis (PC, Cape Breton South) and Remi Paul (PC, Berthier, Askinong, Delanauhere) moving and seconding the traditional reply to the throne speech.

The party leaders—Opposition Leader Pearson, Prime Minister Diefenbaker and CCF Leader Argue, in that order—will fire the opening guns next week. The opposition already has served notice that unemployment will be the major issue.

Only direct mention of unemployment in the throne speech was the announcement of plans to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act.

These include building up the fund from which unemployment payments are made. The government also proposes to "correct abuses which have developed" in unemployment insurance.

The speech placed the major emphasis on spurring the economy to new expansion to provide jobs for record numbers entering the labor force and those displaced by automation and technological change.

Speech From the Throne

THE SPEECH FROM THE Throne is an attractive wrapping for the legislative parcel to be opened at the new session in Ottawa. It lists many subjects of crucial importance, but cannot, of course, indicate what treatment they will receive.

Of cardinal interest and greatest urgency are those related to employment. Whether some bold, imaginative plan will emerge from Parliament, or merely a recapitulation of normal works is a matter which the discussion ahead will disclose.

Mr. Pearson is right, we believe, in urging the quick dispatch of the debate on the speech. The current session is no time in which to unfold the substance customarily included in different members' contributions. If the party leaders make clear the position of the groups for which they speak, then no great harm will result in leaving to a more leisurely time the oratory of others within their ranks.

Mr. Diefenbaker should welcome the opportunity of plunging directly into the major issue before the House. That is undoubtedly a program to assist those who have no jobs at a time when the hardships of winter have already touched parts of Canada and will spread to others.

The inclusion of legislation to stimulate the construction industry — "improvement" in the terms of mortgage lending, grants for hospital building, efforts to counteract urban blight, plans for a new housing project, including residences for university students — all promise work for men in an industry whose activity spreads outward to create jobs beyond those of the actual construction trades.

There is evidence, also, of the decision to push forward whatever government work can be carried on in the winter and to give impetus to long-range planning aimed at strengthening the Canadian economy through higher productivity.

All this is promising. It becomes effective, however, only when promise is converted into action.

Parliament will not escape discussion of the railway strike threat, a matter of obvious concern to the Government but one on which Mr. Diefenbaker has yet to disclose his administration's plan of action.

In other fields, Canadians will look forward to changes in the law concerning capital punishment, to new provision of aid to athletes in a country impressed by the need not only for better individual performance but generally higher physical fitness.

The repeated pleas for more generous treatment of war veterans and their dependents through pension increases appear to have drawn Government acknowledgment in the speech, as have the arguments to restore greater control to Canadians of commerce and industry in their own country.

Revision of the civil service and immigration acts will be carefully scrutinized by citizens far from satisfied that present regulations in each of these fields are adequate to meet current needs.

Of particular concern to British Columbians will be arrangements for hydro development on the Columbia and detailed studies on the western route for the Pine Point railway.

In general, the tone of the speech is encouraging in that action is indicated on so many matters left inconclusive in earlier sessions by the present Government.

The country now awaits performance — and the terms of the "baby" budget on which performance will depend in substantial degree.

The Foot-In-Mouth Champion

MR. A. DeB. McPHILLIPS HAS quite properly been rebuked by Victoria Labor Council for referring to our provincial government as "that scabby bunch across the bay."

The Labor Council, expressing surprise at this type of language, wrote the local member saying that it was "most unbecoming to a member of Parliament."

Of course it is. But it is not the first time Mr. McPhillips has offended in this regard. A survey of his infrequent sorties into the hallowed pages of Hansard demonstrates why the local member has come to be regarded by the Ottawa press gallery as the foot-in-mouth champion of Canada.

Mr. McPhillips, like many an inept politician before him, blames his troubles on "unprincipled journalism." But his letter to the Labor Council, and his speeches in Hansard, are matters of record. No amount of wriggling or twisting can save the MP from these gaudieries. He stands condemned by his own hand and voice.

Start of the Beginning

AFTER LONG DELAYS IT IS good to learn that preliminary work on the $2,750,000 wing at the Royal Jubilee Hospital will get under way next week. Demolition of the original administration block should take a month, with the two-year main construction job commencing in the spring.

The provision of employment at this particular time is, of course, a valuable adjunct. But the need for increased hospital facilities is an equally pressing and more persistent matter. Far too many prospective patients must wait for days or weeks before finding accommodation in local hospitals—a serious criticism of any community with our claims to good living.

Much of the delay in the project has been due to the need to make revisions in the plans. But where these changes have meant considerable improvement in the original drawings the time has been well spent. The hospital wing will be with us for a long time and the last word in hospital construction and layout is required if adequate services are to be provided.

First in North America

TORONTO HAS 'COME UP' with plans for a new kind of secondary school. With many young people—some 6,000 of them—on the city's streets without a job or proper training for one, the need for some new form of trade school was recognized.

Said to be unique on this continent, the new school will cater to those girls and boys who have been launched from lower schools without a means of earning a living, but who are not likely to be helped by the usual vocational schools, commercial classes or colleges. The courses will include training for service and transportation work, for jobs in hotels, airports and restaurants and similar institutions. Even in these less skilled occupations today the need is for some training, and this the new school will provide.

It is a practical plan designed to produce practical results. Its benefits will be two-fold. It will supply a body of workers with a certain amount of training for jobs in a world where unskilled labor is increasingly unnecessary. And it will deplete the street population of young folk who, in idleness, are all too prone to fall into unwholesome, and even criminal, ways.

Memorial to Anne Frank

IN BOOK FORM AND IN MOVIE pictures, the story of Anne Frank has touched the hearts of humanity. The diary of this small girl in a concentration camp is a document to move the most callous.

In part as a memorial to her spirit and in part as an expression of their "obligation" the youth of Frankfurt-on-Main formed the Anne Frank Society some time ago. Recently the German Trade Union Federation donated 10,000 marks, about $2,400, to its funds.

The money will be used to finance travel by young Germans and young Israelis to one another's country. The Trades Union Federation made its contribution believing that this educational exchange would be of lasting value in helping to defeat racial discrimination and prejudice.

There is something inspiring in the gesture—a light burning in a world where there is still too much darkness.

THE CHANGING SYSTEM

By MURIEL GENTLEMAN

Can the Canadian Family Survive?

This is the second of four articles based on the Canadian Conference on Children at St. Adele, Quebec, in October. Miss Gentleman represented a pre-school in Lethbridge, Alberta.

FEUDALISM with its rights and responsibilities became extinct as the modern industrial society developed. Family living could be next.

A large portion of the married women gainfully employed outside their homes confess they do so by choice. Day-long care for pre-school children is taken for granted. Fathers with shorter working hours but longer distances to travel between home and place of employment are involved in community efforts demanding they forfeit the little time left over.

The elementary school child with music lessons or after-school sports activities, Cub Scouts and Brownies, all legitimate enterprises but hour-consuming, have little more than sleeping and eating time to spend at home.

Teen-agers free from school routine and part-time employment dedicate the hours they may spend by choice to activities with their peers. Grandparents are not even to be considered. They have already been retired from the scene to a suitable residence amongst their contemporaries where they will not be in the way in the new streamlined house of the young.

The family pattern that has altered little in three hundred years in the mid-twentieth century faces radical alteration. If family organization cannot be adapted it is doomed.

Obvious Symptoms

In individual cases the disintegration has begun. The symptoms are easily detected.

Young parents living in suburbs beside other young parents feel isolated in meeting normal human problems without the advice and comfort of an older generation. Younger children build a pattern of interests that they do not expect to share at home. As a natural consequence teen-agers feel themselves misunderstood by anyone not of their own age.

Members of the family competing amongst one another for use of the car or mother's energies carry the tensions of the outside world into the home to be continued rather than relaxed.

At one extreme the family are mere acquaintances not bothering to treat one another with the courtesy they would extend to strangers. In another form of the disease parents use their own children as emotional outlets and even violently abuse what they are supposed to love in reaction to the standards life is demanding they themselves meet elsewhere.

This X-ray of family breakdown would be a miserable admission to our society except that it is not yet universal. The cancerous growth has been discovered in time for something to be done about it. The roots of evil can be weeded out by applying humanity's most valuable heritage — our ability to consciously adapt.

We must deliberately consider those ingredients of family living that have been of lasting value. We search not in the physical setting of houses and gadgets alone but amongst the people whose family faith and securities served them well in modern struggles for survival.

Known Loss

Canada has its fair share of families who have known loss of economic security, community status, even national identity. Young people about to be married look on these as their axiomatic rights. Yet they have been hazarded by depression or war in the memory of generations still shaping the 1960's.

From those unhappy human experiences we must sift out the values that were valid in times of terror and sorrow. The practice in our homes must not leave a discrepancy between the things we found we had to believe in and the custom by which we earn our livings and treat the men and women with whom we work and play. Our teen-agers are too honest with themselves to feel secure where words and actions of the adults about them are not in harmony. They will build tomorrow's homes on what we show them today.

The Canadian Conference on Children affirmed its faith in the home as the basic unit of our society. Economically, socially and religiously it exemplifies our way of life.

Faith in the individual and his ability to determine his own pattern of living; respect for the rights by which a person may choose privacy or the nature of his contact with other people; belief that he will accept responsibility for his own affairs and contribute to the common cause; the contention that every individual has a special sanctity and is needed for what he alone in his unique genetic and experimental make-up may contribute, that affection and appreciation rather than compulsion are the best adhesives for human societies—these cornerstones of democracy are the basic structure of the family.

The authoritarian era when father was lord but chief burden bearer has been replaced with a looser, freer association. That is a compliment to human dignity.

Dual Faith

Faith in democracy was demonstrated by the Canadian Conference on Children when it indicated its faith in the family. In helping those who rear Canada's children, increasing emphasis is being placed on keeping children in the milieu of a home.

In spite of extra trouble in administration, foster care is provided in private homes whenever possible. Effort is being made to treat crippled children without removing them from the environment of their own families. The VON are anxious to help mother care for her own sick child whenever possible rather than hospitalize him.

Families in which neurosis has caused unhappiness are being rehabilitated instead of separated. Pre-marital education to prepare young people for the dignified career of home-making is the concern of church and community welfare agencies.

Family living with its privileges and sacrifices is preparation for mature democracy. Canadians must admit where human weakness and laziness might handicap the advantages.

Sir Geoffrey Vickers, author of The Undirected Society who was brought from England to address the conference, pointed out that the best insurance we may give our children for the uncertainties of tomorrow is "flexibility, not the nature of the chameleon, but the capacity to modify."

This insurance policy must be applied to the family. Dividing humans into age classes, as economics once built a hierarchy, would bring its own evils. Other ideologies to which we do not subscribe try that experiment on human guinea pigs. Family living must endure.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Dogs in Pound

N. H. Stephens of the SPCA states that they are constantly receiving complaints about the Saanich Pound. He did not state that they are mostly from dog owners whose dogs had been landed there by the owners' carelessness or selfishness.

These dogs, when loose, wander into peoples' gardens, sometimes scratching holes and breaking down plants, and land in the pound rather dirty-looking and tattered. So the owners when they go to receive their pets do not find them all brushed up with their feet washed, then utter complaints.

These complaints are simply an excuse for their own carelessness in letting their dogs land there. The people who complain should be the garden owners whose work is spoiled when visited by dogs of careless and thoughtless owners.

Why not provide these dogs with woollen mats to lie on and silver drinking cups? A VICTIM.

Are Minutes Worth Lives?

When are we going to cry "Enough!" Week after week, the headlines tell of death and serious injury on our highways. Fatalities, injuries, property damage are all rising.

The traffic toll was steadily dropping until this demand for higher speeds was started. Now we find more and more cars going out of control, smashing into bridges, poles, and each other, being forced off highways. Traffic police are forced to endanger their own and other people's lives in an effort to keep everything moving at the stepped-up speeds.

This emphasis on speed rather than safety must inevitably influence the average motorist's attitude toward driving, particularly the irresponsible younger driver and the drinking driver who, urged to drive at top speeds when sober, will step on it even harder when his judgment is impaired.

The time has come for British Columbia citizens to demand a return to some measure of sanity on the roads all must use. Surely buses and cars can start a little earlier to catch planes and ferries? Are minutes worth more than lives? A. F. DAVIES.

4611 Vantreight Drive.

Poppy Giving

I had occasion to sell poppies outside the Humbolt Street Liquor Store on Saturday, Nov. 5. I was there at 10 a.m. opening time till 12 noon. (Two hours). I was surprised and grateful at the response people gave either going in or coming out—dollar bill, three fifty cent pieces and quarters not a lot of business at that early hour. I was out there to prove that the drinking people in Victoria have not forgotten the Veterans and their dependants. I did not solicit any one they gave freely.

When we compare this with the trouble we are having to get our quota for the Community Chest, something is wrong. Let's face it.

Why support the YMCA, YWCA and St. Joseph's to name three? The Victoria people will give to a worthwhile cause. There is a nigger in the wood pile. Let's dig it out, and next time we will get our quota. G. FINN.

LONDON:

Movable Deterrent

MR. MACMILLAN is glad to have the Polaris base in Britain because it gives us more influence in the alliance. The Conservatives cheered him when he made this attitude clear in the Commons.

He was less clear, understandably enough, on the question of control. The Prime Minister spent a good deal of time elaborating his by now famous four-word assurance that the United States will not use these missiles anywhere in the world without the "fullest possible previous consultation."

He claimed no control over submarines that might be thousands of miles from base, but said there was a written arrangement, concerned with detailed arrangements about the base as between the two navies, which he was not prepared to publish.

For the rest, he relied on the general understanding between the two countries which, as Mr. Macmillan presented it, seemed to be that the Americans would not start a nuclear war "without consulting their allies and particularly ourselves," unless there were special circumstances like an attack on the alliance.

He said nothing precise. No doubt precision is hard in the circumstances in which the Prime Minister and Mr. Gaitskell and all the rest of us find ourselves. Mr. Gaitskell looked far from precise himself when he got up to protest about these "vague assurances."

The official Opposition have after all accepted Polaris as preferable to land-based deterrents, and the Leader of the Opposition also had to accept the fact that there might be those "special circumstances" to prevent consultation before use.

No Delay

Indeed there might. Mr. Macmillan was strong on this. If one member of the alliance were the victim of overwhelming attack by nuclear forces, would the other fifteen be expected to keep their seats and try to get in touch with each other before making a reply?

"It is the certainty," Mr. Macmillan went on—he had to repeat the phrase as the Tories shouted their approval of these defensively fighting words—"it is the certainty that if the aggression is made against us the reply will be made by anybody who is in a position to make it as soon and as overwhelmingly as possible. That is the deterrent."

He did, however, assure the Leader of the Opposition, in near-nostalgic terms that brought in historical characters like Sir Anthony Eden, Sir Winston Churchill, and President Eisenhower, that if a country were attacked by troops, if a battle started, if anything of that old-world order occurred, then there would be consultation between the Allies.

Mr. Gaitskell did not look altogether reassured. Indeed, the excitement here rose to a pitch where Opposition members from several camps, from Mr. George Brown to Mr. Emrys Hughes, were on their feet at the same time, not noticing that the Speaker was also on his.

Sir Harry had to call the House to order. Yet the heat was always well below explosion point.

Odd Moments

There were some odd moments, including one when Mr. Gaitskell had to tell the Tories that nuclear warfare was no laughing matter. There was another when he himself left the chamber at about this time, with the expression on his face of a man with a committee meeting to attend.

Mr. Gaitskell believes in committees, and thinks they should apply (wherever possible, of course) to deterrents like anything else. He also obviously thought that the Prime Minister had passed the point of maximum communication.

Mr. Macmillan, as usual, was vastly considerate to his critics while being careful not to give them much to get their teeth into. There were those who feared that we were merely being made a convenience by the Americans, and Mr. Shinwell thought they ought to be told that it was unwise to build a base amid a hostile population—"a terrible thing to say" about the feelings of Clydesiders for their American allies, the Prime Minister protested, though more in reproach than anger.

Evidently Mr. Macmillan was accepting Polaris as the most promising deterrent for the next few years, yet he parried a question from Mr. Grimmond about whether it would supersede the fixed bases. As for the fairly widespread worry about dangerous or provocative patrols, leading perhaps to underwater repetitions of the RB-47 incident, he apparently took the view that the frugal Americans would not send a machine costing £50 millions on any such reconnaissance — not, perhaps, the most tactful of his remarks.

New Device

He had nothing to tell us about the reported observations of an American naval chief on the virtues of a device that could be used militarily without reference to the politicians, but promised to look at what the man had said.

Nor would he say, though pressed to do so by several Labor members, whether any other countries had been asked to have Polaris. It was not relevant — and anyway, Mr. Macmillan confessed, he was happier to have it in Britain as it helped our influence in the alliance. We could not "wriggle out of this responsibility" by saying it should be in Holland, or Germany, or France, or Italy.

If the deterrent succeeds in deterring then we are still playing our part in the world. If it fails, then the whole world will be impartially uninhabitable without reference to country, or party, or whether you sit above or below the gangway. That was broadly Mr. Macmillan's message, and it sounded like the last word.

SURROUNDED
People are lonely because they build walls instead of bridges.
—Joseph Earl Newman

Down Tin Ear Alley

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One thing the Democrats and Republicans can agree on today is that the campaign music this year has been pretty—pretty awful.

I wouldn't say that the 1960 political songs were the worst ever written. In order to say that, I would have to overlook "The Teapot Dome Blues," which came out in 1924.

However, there is no gainsaying that the songs about this year's candidates were, on the whole, rather uninspiring. There was nothing that a disc jockey could get his needle into.

You may not believe this but a grand total of 86 campaign songs have been copyrighted this year. I believe it because I had to pay the Library of Congress $6 to look up the information.

Twenty-three of the songs were dedicated to Kennedy, 22 to Nixon, 13 to the Democratic party, 14 to the Republican party, two to Kennedy and Johnson, two to Nixon and Lodge and one each to Humphrey, Johnson, Symington and Stevenson.

As you can see, the musical poll came out almost even. In addition, six composers were fence-straddlers, having written songs that either were non-partisan or bi-partisan. There also was some overlapping, or hedging. The composer of "On the White Horse to the White House" copyrighted three versions encompassing Kennedy, Johnson and Symington.

Among the Kennedy songs were "The Man From Massachusetts," "The Kennedy, Kennedy Green" and "Keep Liberty With Kennedy." Nixon songs included "Nixon, the Man For Us," "Nixon Is the Man For Me" and "Carry On, Carry On With Nixon." Party songs had such fetching titles as "Democratic Dynamo," "Democratic Darling," "Donkey Symphony," "Get Over the Humps With the Democrats," "Go, Go, Go, Go Republican," "GOP, We're Proud of Thee," "I'm Proud To Be a Republican" and "We're the GOP."

A fellow in New York wrote a song entitled "The Donkey Did It Again," the lyrics of which went something like this: "Harry S. will help us put it over; with a helping hand from Eleanor we'll all be in clover, singing hee-haw hee-haw, the donkey did it again."

A lady in Washington composed "Lady Bird," a hymn to Mrs. Lyndon Johnson which expressed this sentiment: "Maybe 'Angel' is the word, for Heaven conferred all its wonders on Lady Bird."

The official Democratic campaign song, which was put on the launching pad during the Los Angeles convention, was something called "Walking Down to Washington." On election eve, it was still stranded in Pomona. The Republicans published "Vote For Nixon," but I don't recall ever hearing it and I doubt that very many other people did either.

Kennedy drew most of his musical support from a popular ditty called "High Hopes" while Nixon relied heavily on a quatraine based on that old standby, "Good Night, Ladies."

I'm so tired of hearing them that I'm thinking of composing a new song called "Good Night, High Hopes."

POST of vice-president of the American Broadcasting Company in charge of news and public service will go to James Hagerity, present White House press secretary, according to the New York Times. Hagerity, who declined to confirm or deny the report, would succeed John Daly, who earlier this week tendered his resignation.

'Black, White Leaders Should Meet'

LONDON (CP)—A British newspaper suggests that disinterested Commonwealth leaders, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, should take a hand in staving off deadlock over the future of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

In an editorial entitled "A Commonwealth Cease," the Guardian takes note of the sombre outlook for a successful outcome of forthcoming constitutional talks and says: "If the black and white leaders in the Rhodesias could be brought to talk to the black and white leaders of the Commonwealth, it seems likely that some confidence . . . would emerge. It is . . . a question of reaching a gentlemen's agreement that certain principles of conduct shall be observed."

To such a gentlemen's agreement, it says, such Commonwealth leaders as Nehru of India, Sir Abubakar Balewa of Nigeria, Diefenbaker of Canada and Menzies of Australia might be asked to stand surety.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Those Wild, Wild Kids

LONDON—It was always a popular pastime of the English to deride the young people of your side of the Atlantic, especially American children.

They were ill-mannered, irresponsible, out-of-hand. Not that it was entirely their fault. Far too much so-called freedom on the part of North American parents.

But with the emergence here of the teen-ager—merely in the last five years—the English are not now in a position to be so critical. And there are statistics to prove this.

Illegitimate births among youngsters was regarded as something that "doesn't happen here," or if so, on a minute scale compared to the States.

But now we are presented with the staggering figure of English girls between the ages of 12 and 16 having babies at the rate of 20 a week.

In the registration of births in this country the age of the mother first started to be recorded in 1939; then 1,032 babies were born to girls of 12 to 16. Right up until 1954 that figure never varied greatly.

Reyburn

But in 1955 came the first real evidence that a group called teen-agers was coming into its own.

Magazines specially for them (Flamingo, Honey, Date, etc.) made their appearance. The dress houses got into the act with the novelty (for the English) of teen-age fashions. Commercial TV, starting in that year, went after them with early-evening programs such as "Cool for Cats," "Wham!" and "Oh Boy!" and the BBC had no choice but to follow.

It may be merely coincidence, but with the youth of England eagerly embracing this new teen-age idea, the figures for young girls becoming mothers have risen sharply each year until now the latest total is 2,048—almost exactly double 1939's figure of 1,032.

The Church of England Moral Welfare Council, the only organization handling this situation on a large scale, doesn't regard it as mere coincidence.

With their homes for unmarried mothers in their teens having more and more difficulty in coping with the rate of admissions, their view is: "With the emergence in this country of the American-style teen-ager has also come the big teen-age problem—pregnant at school."

IN VIET NAM

Anti-West

Overtones

Emerge

SAIGON (AP)—Some strongly anti-Western overtones are emerging in South

Viet Nam just to seize power in a thwarted coup. Britain, the United States and France are getting the blame for the

British Ambassador Harold

Hohler was reliably reported to have made a strong personal protest to President Ngo

Dinh Diem Thursday night.

American diplomats were known to be equally disturbed.

Diem's anti-Communist government has been bulwarked by U.S. aid poured in at the rate of $250,000,000 a year.

Hohler's protest was over a handbill distributed in the name of the powerful Citizen's

Anti-Communists and Anti-Communist

Committee which said that during the coup attempt the insurgents and political opportunists had the help of

"TOTALLY FALSE"

The ambassador said this was "totally false," informed sources said.

British and American authorities have been accused of giving foreign reporters a picture of a Viet Nam suffering from authoritarian rule, Diem

"family" government, and cor-

Nguyen Dinh Thuan, the secretary of state for the presidency, told a press conference Thursday the government had no knowledge that any foreign nation was in-involved in the coup.

But he did make the charge that foreigners were involved in a "disparagement campaign" and added they shared indirect responsibility for the Vietnamese blood that has been shed.

Liberals Make Big Gains

EBBW VALE (Reuters)—Phillips, Liberal, 3,449; Emrys of Commons now is Conservatives and allies, 365; Labor, 254; Liberal, six; Independent, one, and four vacancies.

The byelection was the last in a series of seven held this week in what newspapers dubbed Britain's "little general election." No seats changed hands in the week's voting, the governing Conservatives retaining six seats and Labor holding Ebbw Vale.

The feature of the election was the impressive showing of the small Liberal party, which displaced Labor as runnerup to the Conservative in four of the seven ridings.

The result was: Michael Foot, Labor, 20,528 votes; Sir Brandon Rhys Williams, Conservative, 3,799; Patrick Lord, Liberal, 3,449.

First Oil and Gas Fund Ltd. interim report for period ended Sept. 30 has just been issued and shows heavy gains in both outstanding shares and company assets.

From June 30 to Sept. 30 outstanding shares increased from 906,275 to 1,024,340 for a gain of 118,065 while net asset value climbed from $2,874,692 to $3,474,517 for a gain of $599,824 in the quarter.

Assets of the fund are divided: Integrated oils, 26.88 per cent; pipelines, 27.75 per cent; retail gas distributors, 12.62 per cent and independent exploration companies, 30.64 per cent. Cash due or on hand accounts for the remaining 2.11 per cent.

President Carl O. Nickle of Calgary reports that since the end of June the fund has added to its portfolio common shares of Consumers Gas and Greater Winnipeg Gas. Home Oil convertibles 6/75 were sold and replaced by additional TransCanada Pipe Lines subordinate convertible income notes. Alberta Gas Trunk debentures 6 1/2/81 and warrants were sold and additional preferred stock of the company bought.

First Oil and Gas Fund's major holdings include 7,300 shares of Imperial Oil, 8,500 shares of B.A. Oil, 10,300 shares Alberta Gas Trunk, 4,525 shares Interprovincial Pipe Line, $245,520 in TransCanada income notes; 5,900 shares International Utilities.

The word heard in Victoria is that the federal "baby budget" to be presented before Christmas, according to the Throne Speech, will not provide for further federal borrowing. Any supplementary funds needed by Ottawa will be obtained by short-term treasury bill sales.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting metal and fertilizer production is reported running about the same as last year except for silver—which is not a big factor in the company's operation.

Sales approximate present production although lead exports have been considerably curtailed. Price of zinc, about 1 1/2 cents a pound higher than last year have offset lead sale decline.

The U.S. and U.K. are taking about two-thirds of the lead and zinc production of Consolidated—divided about equally between the two countries—but it is expected that there will be a large lead stockpile on hand by the year's end.

Fertilizer sales are expected to be about the same as last year.

There has been considerable increase in capital expenditure for improvements and expansion—much of it in B.C.—in the past year. The new chlorine-alkali plant at Trail is expected to be in production early next year supplying caustic soda and chlorine to the pulp and paper industry. The Trail plant will also eventually produce caustic potash.

Construction is going ahead on the mill at the Coast Copper Mines property with production on an "ore salvage" basis expected early in 1962. Development is also continuing on the lead-zinc property in the Lardeau area near Duncan.

The federal government decision regarding the Pine Point railway—which is expected work on the company's high-grade zinc-lead properties in that area.

Consolidated Mining officials are hesitant about predicting the market or price outlook for the next year with no clear indication of the overseas market picture yet being seen.

Steep Rock has reportedly been hard-hit by the U.S. iron ore shipments from all Canadian mines dropped 34.6 per cent in September from the same month last year.

Merchant Marine Needs Gov't Support—Fisher

OTTAWA (CP)—W. J. Fisher, general manager of the Canadian Ship Owners' Association, said Thursday night that Canada's merchant marine must get government support if it is to compete with foreign shipping.

Mr. Fisher told a local men's church group that all other major shipping nations of the world, including Britain, provide federal assistance for shippers.

Canadian shippers could obtain needed modern equipment only with federal aid. Mr. Fisher said Canada spends more than $100,000,000 a year for foreign shipping service.

"The fourth largest trading nation in the world cannot be left to have its goods carried by shipping of other nations."

WARNING that Canada won't stand by and watch European Common Market damage Canadian trading concessions was given today by Finance Minister Fleming. If barriers to Canadian exports are raised by six-nation market, Canada's tariffs on imports from those countries may no longer be bound against increase under GATT, he indicated.

FROZEN FISH EXPERIMENT SUCCESSFUL

MONTREAL (CP)—An experimental 49,215-pound shipment of fish frozen by a process using liquid nitrogen arrived successfully by rail from Vancouver Thursday.

Willard L. Morrison of New York, who invented the new process, said the shipment, including salmon and halibut, was in perfect condition after an eight-day journey. The shipment left Vancouver Nov. 11.

CANADA DISAPPOINTS U.S. BY TRADING WITH CUBA

HAVANA (CP)—Officials of the United States Embassy here say they are disappointed that Canada has not seen fit to join in the trade embargo the U.S. imposed against Cuba last month.

They say Canada is being used by Cuba to bridge a gap in this country's economy until Russian and Czechoslovakian exports have had time to reshape it to communist specifications.

Among opponents of the leftist revolutionary regime of Premier Fidel Castro—of Canada, by supplying Cuba with the goods she needs to avert possible internal collapse, is in effect assisting the spread of communism in Latin America.

But there is also plenty of sympathy and understanding. In general, Britain takes the same line as Canada. There is nothing on the United Kingdom statute books that would authorize economic sanctions against Cuba, anyway.

Both the counter-revolutionaries and American Embassy officials here contend that Canada, by supplying Cuba with the goods she needs to avert possible internal collapse, is in effect assisting the spread of communism in Latin America.

In reply, it is argued that Canada's practice has been to trade with all countries regardless of political stripe. She has long carried on commerce with Russia, China and Poland, for instance.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Steve Hall, aged 12, of Williamsport, Penn., for his question:

What Is a Mastodon?

The mastodon was a remote relative of the elephant and he has his own branch on the fascinating elephant family tree. He thrived in North America until perhaps a thousand years ago. His fossil remains have been found in many places throughout the United States and Canada. He was very like a modern elephant, though a little shorter and his body was longer. The mastodon was a browsing animal who enjoyed the leafy foliage that flourished in the swamps of the last Ice Age.

The family history of the elephant goes back at least 50 or 60 million years. The elephant ancestors lived in Egypt when the horse ancestors were just getting started in the New World. The original ancestors were only 25 inches tall and had no tusks or no trunk. Nevertheless, the experts tell us that these little animals had the characteristics which made them elephants.

In a few million years, the descendants of the original elephants had become more than three feet tall. Their fossil remains show that a long nose was beginning to develop, though the teeth were still normal. In the New World, the little horse was growing bigger and learning to stand on tiptoe. As time passed, the members of the elephant family grew bigger and bigger. They also grew long lower jaws and two upper teeth began to look like tusks.

Some 25 million years ago, the elephants had reached their full size. However, they still had the long lower jaw and four long tusks instead of two. These powerful animals were roamers. They traveled into Europe, into Asia and somehow they got to North America. To do this, they may have crossed a land bridge from Northern Europe to Canada or another land bridge from Asia to Alaska.

From this time almost until the present, there were many kinds of elephants in the New World. The huge imperial elephant roamed through California, Texas and Mexico. This fellow stood two feet taller than our modern Jumbo and his great curved tusks were 16 feet long. The Columbian elephant, a little larger than a modern Indian elephant, had spiral tusks, often overlapping at the tips. By this time the four-tusked elephants had disappeared and the lower jaw had become much smaller. All the elephants now had two tusks and a long, pliable trunk.

To the north, in Arctic regions, lived the woolly mammoth. He was somewhat smaller than a modern elephant but he may have looked bigger because he was covered with a floor-length coat of coarse hair. To the south lived the mastodon, feeding on trees and shrubs and perhaps wading in the swampland.

NEW YORK—Jack Kennedy'll probably be the target of more friendly kidding than any president since "Silent Cal" Coolidge.

Take, for example, a remark at Jack Benny's black-tie party at the Automat—when Jack pretended to wince with pain as he handed out $2 worth of nickels to such famous guests as Helen Hayes, Roz Russell, Irene Dunne, Dina Merrill and Gisele MacKenzie—about $200 worth of nickels in all.

Toots Shor (a Democrat) shouted above the dance music:

"Kennedy's only just been elected and already celebrities in formal dress are eating at the Automat!"

Benny, who got rich pretending to be cheap, told me that as he and some formally-dressed friends set out for the party, the chauffeur of their rented Rolls-Royce said, "Where to?"

"The Automat," Benny answered.

The chauffeur, without looking around, said, "The Automat? You must be Jack Benny!"

IT COULD HAPPEN ONLY IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brooklyn is famous as the place where a tree grows and where the Los Angeles Dodgers came from, and it is a place where anything can happen.

Thursday night, for instance, patrolman Thomas Higgins stopped his police cruiser and walked over to a parked car with four men and a big dog in it.

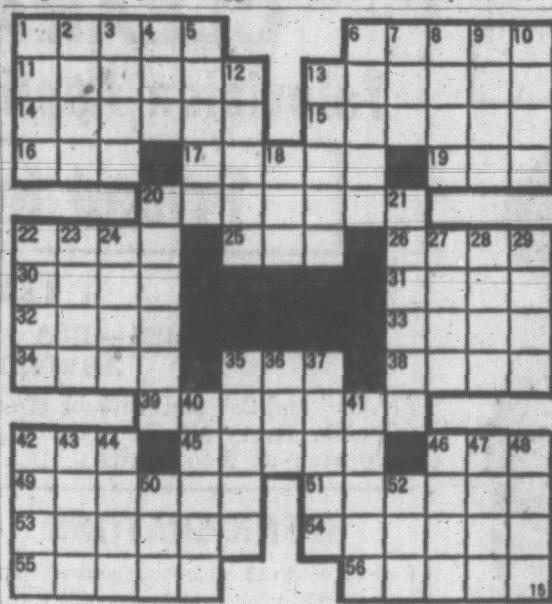

In any place but Brooklyn, a bluecoat, however doughty, might have been at least startled to find that "the big dog" was a 125-pound lion.

Higgins murmuring something like "it figures," suggested that all hands, including the jungle's gift to Brooklyn, accompany him to the station house—in their own car, of course.

There, Anthony Ortolia, 26, told officers the female lion was named "Cleo." He said he was minding her for a friend, identified only as "Frank," who had bought Cleo in a Brooklyn petshop and intended some time or other to give her to a zoo.

While Cleo licked playfully at passing patrolmen's boots and nibbled at their shoelaces, Ortolia was given a summons for harboring a wild animal within the city limits.

City Principal All Smiles About College Housing Aid

Prof. Robert Wallace, acting principal of Victoria College, said today he was gratified with the Throne Speech proposal to help universities build residences.

The federal government Thursday said it will introduce legislation to authorize Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to make loans to universities for construction of student residences.

"I am sure this will have an impact here," he said. "Victoria College will certainly investigate all possible methods of taking advantage of this assistance."

ACUTE PROBLEM
Prof. Wallace said the problem of providing student residences at the college was becoming acute.

Hundreds of outside students are enrolled at the college and more will be attracted in future as a result of this year's breakthrough with enrollment of the college's first fourth-year class.

The multi-million-dollar building fund launched last year will be needed entirely for putting up classroom, laboratory and other teaching facilities.

LONG SOUGHT
"We need residences badly if we are to develop into a first-class liberal arts university so the federal decision is a very important one for us," he said.

"Canadian universities have been seeking this kind of assistance for a long time and only recently included it in their submission to the federal cabinet."

Had 12 Husbands
CHICAGO (AP)—A woman arrested while living with her 12th serviceman husband and accused of murdering the other 11 to obtain their government subsistence cheques has been sentenced to a year in jail. She is Mrs. Virginia Debus, 32.

BIRTHDAY—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery celebrated his 73rd birthday Thursday. The famed British soldier was confined to bed most of the day with an attack of influenza.

WHY DID TORIES WAIT?

'One Session Late'—Bonner

"It's about time"—that's the B.C. government reaction to the federal legislation program outlined in Thursday's throne speech at Ottawa.

PGE Study Completed On New Link

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett said Thursday night a study of a second linking of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the Northern Alberta Railway is complete.

He said in an interview the results of the study will not be released until it is discussed at a proposed meeting of NAR and PGE officials.

Mr. Bennett, president of the provincially-owned PGE, said general manager Joseph Broadbent has held preliminary discussions with NAR officials.

The premier announced in September that the province hopes to create a connection between Fort St. John, B.C., and Hines Creek, Alta. The PGE now joins the NAR at Dawson Creek, B.C.

Under the B.C. proposal the NAR would build from Grimshaw, Alta., to the border and link up with a PGE extension. This would give the PGE direct connection with the Pine Point, N.W.T., railway proposed by the federal government which would start from Grimshaw.

"It is a reflection of the urgency of the national situation," Attorney-General Robert Bonner told reporters.

"The measures aimed at improving the national economy and relieving unemployment at this hour can only be seen under the heading of 'It's about time.'"

MONTHS AWAY
But, he added, "the pity of it" is that "results are months away."

"It would have suited the requirements of the nation better at the last parliamentary session."

Mr. Bonner declined to speculate on details of the "baby budget" coming before Christmas to pay for the new programs.

DEFENCE CUTS
But he said it seems likely the federal government may seek increased revenue and probably one of the best sources of money might be to slash defence spending.

B.C. is elated about action on the Pine Point railway from Grimshaw in northwestern Alberta to the Northwest Territories, mineral deposits, he said.

B.C. fought hard for a western route of this railway against proponents of a more easterly line which would have left B.C. out of the project.

JOIN PGE

Now the new railway will join the Pacific Great Eastern after negotiations are completed between the PGE and the Northern Alberta Railway for a connection of the Fort St. John PGE line and the Hines Creek NAR line.

Mr. Bonner said he couldn't predict if legislation concerning the death penalty for murder will mean abolition of hanging.

"It could be a U.S.-type of gradation of homicidal offences—first, second and third degree—but I'm only guessing," he said.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Saanich police court Thursday:

Robert P. Graham, 3015 Up-lands, $25 for failing to yield right-of-way.

Edwin H. James, 338 Goldstream, $20 for turning vehicle and interfering with traffic.

Robert Maurice Milke, 1829 Penhurst, $20 for failing to have auxiliary coupling device on trailer.

Lewis Knott, 1765 Glastonbury, $10 for not carrying licence in conspicuous position; $10 for driving without lights; $25 for not being able to produce a driving licence.

Second War Soldiers 'Bowmen of Cressy'

A new, daring approach to the defence of Canada was suggested Thursday by British Columbia's Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

He said the soldiers of the Second World War compared with those of the next world war would seem "like the bowmen of Cressy."

Whole air forces have been replaced by weapons with fantastic fire power such as the Polaris submarine-borne missile, he said.

The federal government might consider "whether or not we are spending vast millions on defence in the most useful way."

"It needs the courage of daring to think differently and dramatically."

Mr. Bonner's defence theories came in comments on how the Ottawa government might raise funds to pay for projects to ease unemployment and improve the national economy. He suggested cuts in the defence budget.

"About the only area that could be considered for slashing would be defence," he said.

LOADED BUS SLAMS INTO RIVER, ALL SAFE

COOS BAY, Ore. (AP)—A rock slammed a milk tank truck into a bus carrying 25 loggers Thursday and hurled the bus into the Alleghany River. All aboard escaped from the submerged bus.

State police said driver Jerald Leroy Baker, 39, Coos Bay, was the most seriously hurt. Four loggers were reported in good condition in hospital. The others were treated and released.

Apparently the slide came right in front of the truck, which ran up on the rocks and slipped over into the oncoming bus.

The bus went off the road four miles east of Coos Bay and plunged into the water. The loggers climbed out, pulling the injured behind them. They then swam to shore.

Archie Button, one of the loggers, said it was like "spinning around in one of those airplanes in a carnival. I just grabbed onto my seat and held on and spun with it."

Those Hawks Great Homers

Chicago Black Hawks would probably have few challengers for the National Hockey League leadership if they could play all their games in friendly Chicago.

The Hawks are masters on home ice this season — undefeated in nine games with seven victories and two ties — and their latest success came Thursday night when the "million dollar line" of Bobby Hull, Murray Balfour and Bill (Red) Hay scored three goals for a 4-2 triumph over Boston Bruins.

Everything seems to work out for the Hawks on home ice. Hull, Balfour and Hay usually come up with their best performances there and goalie Glenn Hall is practically unbeatable.

Their inability to win away from home has prevented them from staying in first place. Thursday's win pushed the Hawks into a second-place tie with Detroit Red Wings, each with 22 points. Both trail first-place Montreal Canadiens by a single point.

At home, besides being unbeaten, they have scored 37 goals in nine games and allowed opposing teams only 16.

On the road they've won only twice, lost six and tied two others. Hall, the league's all-star goalie for the last three seasons, has been beaten 36 times in 10 games while his teammates have scored only 22 goals.

Hull, Balfour and Hay each scored once Thursday night and Hall turned aside 29 shots before a slim mid-week crowd of 6,983.

Ron Murphy got Chicago's other goal while Don McKenney and Jerry Toppazzini scored for Boston.

Ploen's Status Still Indefinite

WINNIPEG (CP) — The odds favoring rookie quarterback Vernon Cole as the one likely to direct Winnipeg Blue Bombers' attack against Edmonton Eskimos in the rubber game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union final are growing steadily.

NHL Fans Being Cheated?

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Canning, president of the American Hockey League, says the National League is not giving fans their money's worth, while the AHL is working overtime to do it.

"There's no question that tie games are bad for hockey," Canning said Thursday. "The fans get their full share of them in the National League and they pay top prices, too."

Canning said there has been only one overtime tie game in 65 AHL games this season. Three other games were deadlocked at the end of regulation time but the winning goal was scored in sudden-death overtime.

The National League, which has no overtime play during the regular season, has had 11 deadlocks in 55 games this year.

"I've seen many National League games in which the visiting team plays for a tie with the score even in the final period," Canning said. "That makes for dull, uninteresting hockey. The fans have a right to expect more than they're getting."

Strike Plan Backed By Northern Players

LONDON (AP) — England's soccer players Thursday voted to strike if their clubs fail to meet demands for more pay and better contracts.

The go-ahead came from a mass meeting of 200 players representing clubs in the north of England.

Previously delegates from clubs in the Midlands and South had given the 2,700-member players' union a month to negotiate new contracts and higher wages. After that, trouble was promised.

The players' union is scheduled to meet with English League officials and peace officers in the labor ministry Tuesday.

Skater Suspended For Making Noise

DETROIT (AP) — Jeanne Omelenchuk, Detroit speed-skating star, has been suspended from competition in 1960-61 by the United States Amateur Skating Union.

He was charged with insubordination during the Olympic Games in California last winter for criticizing coaching of the U.S. team and race officials.

GREY CUP WHEELER

Not all action at next Wednesday's "Little Grey Cup" game at Royal Athletic Park will be provided by football players. Half-time interval during juvenile game between Victoria All-Stars and Winnipeg Rams will be loaded with entertainment, which includes performance by Cap's Paraders, a unicycle group from New Westminster invited to appear in Grey Cup parade at Vancouver Nov. 26. Ace of Paraders is nine-year-old Wayne Hobbis (above), who has been frolicing on single wheel for five years.

Juvenile Gridders Set for Big Clash

The chinks have been filled, they hope, and now Oak Bay Police are ready for Sunday's deciding game in the Vancouver Island juvenile Canadian football final.

Second game of the total point series with Campbell River Raiders starts at 2 p.m. Sunday at Carnarvon Park.

The Jack Bryan-Ralph Smith-coached Police, who had to come from behind to post a 20-19 victory last Sunday, will still be without the services of three players injured in a car accident en route to Campbell River.

Trev Locke, Frank May and Bob Simpson—all were injured in the highway mishap. Their regular spots in Oak Bay's first-string unit will be filled Sunday by centre Al Foster, guard Ken Smith and end Jim Blades.

Bob Clarke, 195-pound tackle with Oak Bay who missed last week's game because of an injury, will also return to action, and Don McLeod is troubled with a sore neck.

TRANSFER SYSTEM BEATEN

Soccer Rebel Wins His Point

LONDON (AP) — Rebel soccer star George Eastham signed for Arsenal today and won a four-months-long battle against Britain's soccer transfer system.

Arsenal paid Newcastle United £50,000 ($137,000) for the inside-forward, who hasn't played soccer all the season because he wanted a transfer to the club of his choice.

"I am happy and delighted it is all over," said the 21-year-old star of England's under-23 team.

But he declined to say if he would withdraw the writ he issued against Newcastle accusing the club of depriving him of his livelihood by refusing him a transfer earlier.

Eastham refused to sign for Newcastle at the end of last season because he said he was unhappy there. He said he wanted to play for Arsenal.

Under British rules, Eastham was tied to Newcastle until the club agreed to transfer him.

Newcastle refused. It said another player would have to be found to replace him before he could be sold to another club.

Eastham put his soccer boots away and took a job as a cork salesman near London. He said he wouldn't play big-time soccer again unless it was for Arsenal—and today he won.

Bud Enjoying Results — But Not the Method

Poile Admits Flyer Pattern Tough on Nerves

Figures may not lie, but they can be deceiving. For an example, just take a look at the Western Hockey League race.

Edmonton Flyers have scored 49 goals and yielded 54 tallies to their rivals. Calgary Stampeders have flipped 52 pucks into enemy nets and given up only 38 tallies.

That makes it appear that Calgary is the more potent club, yet it is the Flyers who are riding high in first place with a four-point bulge over the runner-up Stamps.

Stampeders moved into the runner-up spot Thursday night by whipping in two tallies in the final four minutes to down Winnipeg Warriors 5-3 before 3,179 Calgary fans.

One of the big reasons why the Flyers have managed to stay out front is their ability to win the close ones. They took 7-1 and 5-1 thumpings in two of their five defeats, but the eager men of manager-coach Bud Poile have won seven tussles by a single goal and their other three victories have been by two-goal margins.

TOUGH ON NERVES

Results have been highly satisfactory, but Poile admits that the method the Flyers have been using to chalk up their triumphs is more than enough to frazzle the nerves of any coach and that the number of goals yielded by his crew has him a trifle worried.

Poile is hoping he will be able to relax a bit at Memorial Arena tonight when the Flyers continue their swing through the coast portion of the eight-team circuit with a clash against Victoria Cougars.

Poile is happiest when he's talking about "our kids," who are the youngsters who make up the all-rookie Edmonton line of Bruce MacGregor, Bob Goebel and Ed Joyal.

SEVEN FOR JOYAL

All members of the junior Edmonton Oil Kings last winter, the youngsters are packing a big scoring load. Between them, the rookies have collected 16 goals, seven by Joyal.

Cougars, who have a chance to move up into a tie with either Vancouver or Seattle, may have one or two defence-men out of action for tonight's tussle. Wayne North, who suffered an ankle injury last Friday, is still a doubtful starter and Don McLeod is troubled with a sore neck.

If one is unable to play, coach George Agar will probably use Pat Ginnell on defence. If both are out, Agar will dress both Ginnell and Elliott Chorley.

Rookie Cliff Bristow paced the Stampeders Thursday night with two goals. Ron Leopold, Sid Finney and Lou Jankowski were the other Calgary snipers.

Lorne Davis, Ray Brunel and Barry Ross counted for Winnipeg.

Are They Healthy?

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert Cleroux, Canadian heavy-weight champion and challenger George Chuvalo of Toronto will undergo a pre-flight medical examination at noon today. The boxers meet in a title fight here Nov. 23.

Celtic Star Fined

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Russell, all-star centre of Boston Celtics, was fined $100 by the National Basketball Association Thursday for a run-in with Jim Krebs of Los Angeles Lakers Nov. 12.

Cadets Can Make Hay While Reds Are Away

Royal Roads has a glittering chance to step out in front in the Victoria Rugby Union race Saturday.

The cadets take on winless James Bay at Macdonald Park and a victory would lift Royal Roads one point ahead of the Oak Bay Reds.

Reds will be unable to do anything about protecting their current first-place position this week because of an exhibition match with Trojans in Vancouver, but they will get back into the league scramble next week.

HMCS Venture, only other team that could give Roads trouble, is idle Saturday.

TIED FOR FOURTH

A sharp battle for fourth place is anticipated when Oak Bay Whites and Victoria College "A", with identical records, clash at the Gordon Head campus.

At HMCS Naden playing field, Naval Technical Apprentices will meet Victoria College "B", which now holds a perfect record of seven games and seven defeats.

FLASHY FLYERS

Two good reasons why Victoria Cougars may have trouble scoring goals against Edmonton tonight in Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena are defenceman Gordie Strate (left) and goalie Dennis Riggan. Sidelined with broken jaw in pre-season training, Strate has been standout on blue-line since rejoining Flyers and Riggan is one of sharpest netminders in loop. Game time is 8:30.

MEMO TO MR. HALL:

Try a Brick Wall In Front of Net

VANCOUVER — Nobody, least of all general-manager Coley Hall, seems to know what to do about the goaltending problem facing Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League.

Canucks have tried and rejected both Cesare Maniago, now with Spokane Comets, and Ray Mikulan.

George Wood, a 22-year-old Vancouver-bred youngster, has been around all the while. Wood steps in each time one of his rivals weakens.

It seems general-manager Hall is undecided about Wood's future with the club. Nevertheless, Hall has given Wood a new life.

Hall had made arrangements earlier this week for Claude Evans to replace Wood. The veteran Evans now is with Kitchener-Waterloo of the Eastern Professional League.

Wood was in goal here Tuesday as Vancouver downed league-leading Edmonton 5-1.

A steady effort by Wood prompted Hall to stop Evans Wednesday—just as the goalie was leaving to catch a plane west.

The latest word is that Wood will play here Friday when Vancouver meets Seattle. Evans? He's awaiting further word from Hall.

Prospects Slim For Easing Tieup

With well over half of the pre-Christmas schedule completed, the Victoria and District Football League race is still a five-team affair and there's little likelihood that this weekend's play will narrow it down.

League-leading Kickers are idle, so Saanich Thistles get a chance to go ahead by one point with a win over Ladysmith Sunday at Reynolds Road Park.

Rookie Cliff Bristow paced the Stampeders Thursday night with two goals. Ron Leopold, Sid Finney and Lou Jankowski were the other Calgary snipers.

Lorne Davis, Ray Brunel and Barry Ross counted for Winnipeg.

Defending champion Billy Casper came in with a 70.

Pittman, 23, has won a shade better than $7,200 this year with his best showing a tie for sixth in the $50,000 Indianapolis Open.

Toronto's Jerry Magee and Al Balding both shot 70s.

Scores of other Canadians were: George Knudson, Toronto, 76; Wilf Homenuik, Winnipeg, 78; Ron Capra, Hamilton, 78, and Bill Wright, Edmonton, 80.

Bill Ezinicki, formerly of Winnipeg, shot a 71.

All senior games start at 2:30 p.m.

In junior ranks, Oak Bay Whites play Air Cadets at Windsor and PPCLI cadets meet Sea Cadets at Work Point Barracks, both games are at 2 p.m. Oak Bay Reds tackle Canadian Scottish Cadets at Carnarvon Park at 2:30 p.m.

Revived in Victoria after an absence of two years, the league will cater to boys aged 16-18 and serve as the final bridge between other minor leagues and senior ball clubs.

Other officers elected were: Vic Hemming, vice-president; Bill McAdams, secretary; Pat Newell, treasurer; Dick Pollock, player agent; Gordon Rutledge, head scorekeeper, statistician—and, with Harold Turner and Ralph Cosier, publicity.

Gold On Alleys

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Get with that bowling ball, son, because the time is fast approaching when a pro can earn a minimum salary of $6,000 in 26 weeks, a share of "world series" loot and a $100,000 first prize in a bowler-of-the-year windup.

These payoffs all are part of the plans of the new National Bowling League, a 12-city loop which will swing into action in October of next year. This isn't just talk, either, because the cities involved already have put up a $75,000 guarantee.

And, with a determined plan in mind to cater to spectators, bowling stars soon may become as popular as other sports-page celebrities.

LANES IN TIERS
Typical of the new league's vision was the announcement of plans for a $3,000,000 bowling centre in New York's busy Grand Central terminal. There will be 44 lanes in three tiers above the waiting room through which 500,000 people pass daily. But there also will be four "league" lanes surrounded by an arena seating 600 spectators.

"Bowling can be a very big spectator sport," insists Irving Fagenson, one of the masterminds of the new project which will sponsor the New York team in the national league, which also includes Los Angeles, San Antonio, Fort Worth, Dallas, Kansas City, Omaha, Minneapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Birmingham and Miami.

STARS SIGNED
The new league bumped head-on into the pro bowlers association but, refusing to give up control of its brain-child league, has gone uncompromisingly ahead under the direction of its commissioner, tall, grey-haired Dick Charles. "Our first year we naturally couldn't afford to pay the $100,000 some stars like Don Carter are earning," Charles explains. "But we have signed some stars to $20,000 contracts and have a minimum contract of $6,000 for the 26 weeks of our season."

"There is the security," he shrugs, "plus a lot of other benefits. For instance, we intend to appropriate $250,000 at the end of the first year. The top 125 league stars then will bowl in a 13-week match play tournament. They'll start at Los Angeles and work cross-country until there are only four left for the semi-finals and finals in New York. The finals will be held in Madison Square Garden the last week of August, 1962—and the winner will take home a first prize of $100,000."

The league's stars, he said, also will compete in a "world series" at the end of the regular league season. It is the league's plan to pay off much in the manner of baseball's post-season classic.

The money involved, of course, is the league's answer to the pro bowlers' association. Very few of even the hottest names in bowling can afford to pass up this kind of action and the new league, admitting that "we must have the best bowling available," is ready to pay top dollar.

"The 12 groups involved in this league are all businessmen," Charles explains. "We're not philanthropists. We've got an idea and we're going to pay to make it go."

"You're doing a terrific job of reviving, kid!"

Ottawa Planning Boost for Sport

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans to bolster Canadian amateur athletics were announced cryptically in the speech from the Throne Thursday.

The outline of government intentions said Parliament will be asked to "consider means of encouraging the youth of Canada in amateur athletics." It was understood that the national health department would be used to implement whatever the government has in mind—to be revealed later in the session.

There have been numerous signs of discontent with the status quo of Canadian amateur athletics — ranging from Prince Philip's assertion that Canadians are soft and out-of-condition to criticism of Canada's showing in international competitions.

John Taylor, Progressive Conservative member for Vancouver Burrard and son of old-time hockey ace Cyclone Taylor, has sponsored private legislation in the Commons seeking a Canada sports council.

Local entries in singles include Sonja Burling and Heather Fraser in the juvenile class, Paula Carr in the novice class and Deldre Humphries in the junior division.

Competing in the dancing events will be Jill Heinrichs and Bryce Sweetman, and Lenore Comestott and Bill McDonald in the bronze class; Lorraine Hyne and Leonard Simpson, Cheryl Ann Watson and Douglas Jubb, Sandra Tregellas and Douglas Doidge, all in the silver class.

Time and Boundaries Erase Toronto's Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — The beleaguered American Baseball League, determined to go through with its plans to expand to 10 teams next year, today made available 56 players to be sold to the two new clubs—Washington and Los Angeles—for an aggregate $420,000.

League president Joe Cronin, after awarding the Washington franchise to a 10-man syndicate headed by Eldwood Quesada, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, said Thursday night a new club would definitely be placed in Los Angeles.

Hank Greenberg, who had been expected to head an operating syndicate in Los Angeles, bowed out, presumably because of Commissioner Ford Frick's insistence that "equitable" indemnity be paid to Walter O'Malley, owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers, for damages accrued in his pioneering effort on the west coast.

Rumors earlier Thursday that the league might decide to leave Los Angeles out of its immediate plans in favor of Toronto were deflated when it was pointed out that a major league club cannot draft minor league territory after Oct. 31. It was considered unlikely this rule could be waived.

PLAYER PLAN DRAFTED
So certain were the American League club owners of playing in Washington and Los Angeles in 1961 to make up a 10-team league, that they spelled out a plan to stock each new club with 28 men from the current 40-man rosters of old clubs.

Each of the eight incumbents was obliged to designate a list of 15 players, seven of whom must have been on the club's active roster last Aug. 31.

Each club is required to sell seven players, at $75,000 a player. No more than four can be taken from one club by any one of the two new teams. All purchases must be made before midnight, Nov. 20. At the end of the player sale, each of the two new clubs will have purchased 28 players at a cost of $2,100,000.

Each new club also will be permitted to select two minor leaguers at $25,000 each after the completion of the annual minor league draft Nov. 28 at Louisville. Added to this total of 30, eight more may be purchased for $25,000 by each of the newcomers from each of the American League clubs farm system.

Basketball Lions Lose Two in Row
VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Dietrich-Collins staved off a late rally by the B.C. Lions Thursday night for a 66-56 victory in inter-city senior basketball.

In an earlier game, Vancouver Puritans hung a fifth straight loss on Vancouver Harlequin Nocturnes 84-49.

Lions have now lost two in a row after winning their opener.

HORSEPOWER THAT MAKES SENSE FOUR CYLINDERS TO SAVE GAS! THE NEW SWEET RUNNING TROPHY 4 ENGINE FROM PONTIAC PERFORMANCE SPECIALISTS!

The new Trophy 4 engine puts real performance in the Tempest and cuts gasoline bills to boot. This new baby is eager to move out for safe passing. Holds the going pace on any expressway. Breezes up steep hills in high gear. This new 195 cubic inch displacement, 45° inclined, short stroke, 4 cylinder engine has a wide range of h.p. ratings. With single-barrel carburetor and stick shift: 110 h.p. (regular gas) or 120 h.p. (premium gas). With the same carburetor and extra cost automatic shift: 130 h.p. (regular gas) or 140 h.p. (premium gas). Want still more? Order the 4-barrel carburetor with the automatic and jump the output to 155 h.p. (Or buy the 155 h.p. aluminum V8 option.)

Rear axle drive and transmission are combined (a trans-axle). Flexible shaft from front engine delivers smooth, quiet power. Perfect 50-50 balance gives a flat, level ride that no other new-size car can touch. Rides like the big ones! An equal load on every wheel. Steering is light and easy! Better braking and improved traction in snow, sand or mud! Independent suspension at all wheels. Swing axles keep Tempest on an even keel over bumps, ruts, dips and holes! 112" wheel-base. Long enough for a cradled ride—short enough to handle like a sports car. Big 15" wheels. Good road clearance. Long tire life. (13" compact wheels turn about 4900 more times to go 100 miles.) Seats six men. The big transmission hump is gone. The middle man can stretch out size 12 brogans! Wide-Track wheels. The track is up to 3" wider than most compacts. Less lean. Less sway. Better cornering. Your Pontiac dealer is the place to go! A four-door sedan... a station wagon... a full line-up of accessories. Try the Tempest out for an hour—you'll want it for keeps! It's priced with the compacts!

OTTAWA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool today called for integration of Canada's two major railways as a national utility to be operated in the national interest.

A two-step plan aimed at nationalizing the privately-owned CPR was advocated by the pool in a brief submitted to the MacPherson royal commission on transportation by pool president J. H. Wesson of Regina.

The prairie grain-handling organization also categorically opposed the CPR-CNR bid for a multi-million dollar federal subsidy on Western Canada's export grain rail traffic.

"A subsidy of the kind proposed by the railway companies is at best a stop-gap expedient and does not take into account a real solution to the and not merely a grain handling problem," said the brief.

WARNS OF SUBSIDY
Even if the six-man commission does accept the subsidy idea, there is no justification whatever for labelling it as a subsidy to the Prairie grain industry, the brief added.

The pool—the world's largest grain-marketing co-operative—warned that any subsidy linked directly to grain traffic would jeopardize "the low freight rate level on grain at some future date."

The wheat pool said it would "welcome action... toward integration of Canadian rail services" on two bases:

1. Nationalization of all railway facilities other than the actual running stock. This would mean a crown company would operate present rail facilities such as track, stations, yards, warehouses, telegraph services and so on, with the CPR running its own trains on the state-controlled track.

2. Amalgamation of both major railways into one publicly-owned corporation "for the operation of the railway service as a national utility in the national interest."

The brief suggested the two steps could be taken separately or together.

But it added that neither must be undertaken until after "serious study of the entire railway picture and not on any piece-meal basis."

Newspapers 'Guardians Of Liberty'

A free press is essential to democracy, Richard J. Bower told the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club Thursday night.

The editor-in-chief of The Daily Colonist said the press is the principal means by which the ordinary man can learn the facts of current affairs.

Suppression of the press has been the foundation of all dictatorships, he said.

BEST GUARDIAN
Press freedom requires responsibility and a newspaper serves society through accurate and unbiased reporting, fair editorials and a careful-but-bold policy.

"Such a newspaper is the best guardian of the liberty of a people," he said.

Kennedy Foes Face Purge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A behind-the-scenes effort is on to purge from posts of legislative power the five Democratic congressmen who campaigned against the election of Sen. John F. Kennedy to the presidency.

The object is to increase chances for enactment of Kennedy's legislative program. One of the defectors is from Louisiana and the other four are from Mississippi, which approve a slate of unpledged presidential electors.

A small group of influential pro-Kennedy Democrats from the north hopes soon to persuade Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) to give the go ahead for the purge.

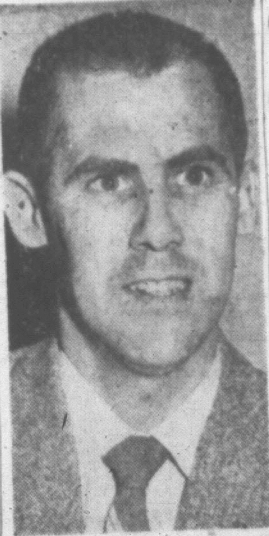

If Rayburn refuses, there will be no purge. If he consents, action undoubtedly will be taken against the five congressmen when the new congress convenes in January.

The congressmen: Rep. William M. Colmer, 70, second-ranked Democrat on the powerful House Rules Committee; Rep. Otto Passman, 60, who heads the House Foreign Aid Appropriations Subcommittee; Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, 50, chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee; Rep. John Bell Williams, 41, second-ranking Democrat on the House Commerce Committee, and Rep. Arthur Winstead, 56, sixth-ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee.

A-SHELTERS TERMED 'HOAX'

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize-winning chemist, said Thursday night that promotion of fallout shelters "represents a hoax to the American people."

The shelters built at a cost of a billion dollars would be ineffective during an enemy attack, he said.

FATHER OF SIX, 32-year-old W. G. (George) Curran, 1861 Newton, will be running for school trustee in the urban School District 61, Saanich, in next month's municipal elections. Since coming to Victoria in 1951 he has been employed as a clerk with Victoria Press Ltd. He is vice-president of Ward 4, Victoria Liberal Association, and is a member of the supervising committee of the Perpetual Help Credit Union. This is the first time Mr. Curran has tried for public office.

Drugs Stolen From Doctor

Narcotics were taken Thursday from a medical bag stolen from a doctor's car parked at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The bag was found by Rev. Canon R. E. H. Howell, propped against a wall of Christ Church Cathedral.

City police reported that two ampules of narcotics, one of morphine and another of pethidine, were stolen. Everything else in the bag was left intact.

The narcotics taken are enough to provide a drug addict with two "fixes".

The case has been turned over to the RCMP for investigation.

Grocer Beats Egg Charge On Technicality

Magistrate William Ostler Thursday dismissed a charge against Henry Eng of allegedly selling eggs cheaper than provincial legislation allowed.

The case in Saanich police court was thrown out on a technical point—the crown had not proved Mr. Eng was actually conducting business at the IGA Foodliner, 3475 Quadra, at the time of the alleged offence.

The charge had alleged Mr. Eng sold Grade "A" large eggs at 39 cents a dozen last March, less than a five-cent markup over the wholesale price, in contravention of the Commodities Minimum Loss Act of 1937.

'ALMOST VICIOUS'

Defence counsel W. H. M. Haldane said the act was "almost vicious" and invaded federal jurisdiction.

But Mr. Ostler, dismissing the case, said there had been no trade licences produced to show Mr. Eng was operating the business at the time of the alleged offence.

Munich in West Germany developed from the village of Munichen, first mentioned in 1102.

Ottawa Protest On 'Favoritism'

A local union will protest to the federal government that layoffs at HMC Dockyard were based on "personal preference" rather than seniority.

Jack Driscoll, business agent of local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said dockyard seniority is supposed to be based upon a points system which counts for length of service, credit for military service and work habits.

Under this practice it is quite possible for a man with up to 10 years' service and good points rating to be laid off and at the same time the department would be rehiring or retaining in service other men with less than one year's service.

"The recent layoff has proved this point as we have men with six to eight years' service laid off and men with six or seven months retained," said Mr. Driscoll.

BOMARC B MISSILE STREAKS ON TARGET

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—The air force has made its eighth successful launching of the advanced Bomarc-B ground-to-air missile in nine attempts from nearby Santa Rosa Island.

One of the 47-foot anti-aircraft weapons streaked more than 300 miles out over the Gulf of Mexico Thursday and intercepted an electronically-simulated enemy target. Canada plans to have two Bomarc squadrons.

Salesmen Trade Calories for Bonus Dollars and Double Business

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

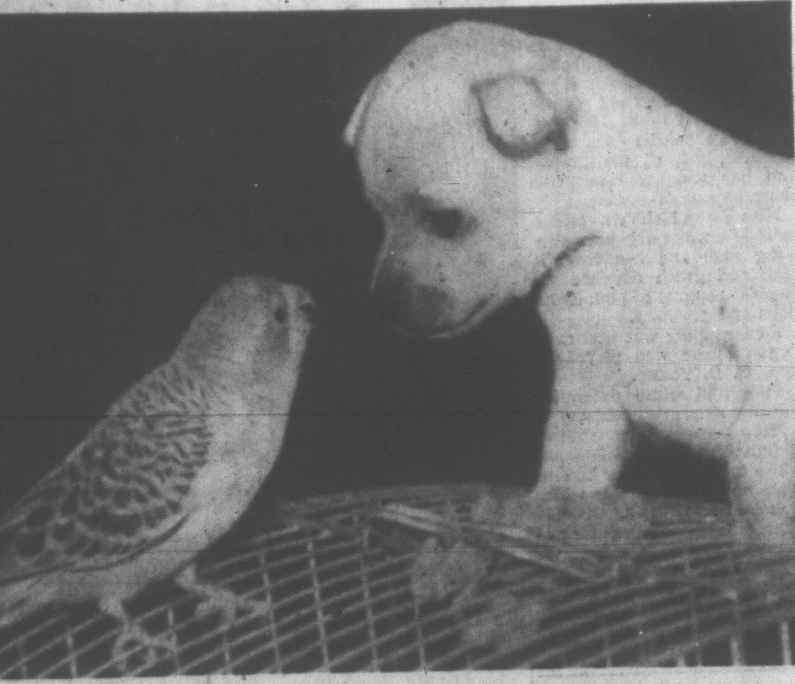

Employees of a Nanaimo real estate firm are making money by losing weight.

The firm pays $25 for the first 10 pounds of overweight dropped, and $2.50 for each additional pound worked off or fasted off.

Why?

"Because it makes for greater efficiency all round," says Frank Ney, manager of the Nanaimo Realty Co.

"Our sales have gone up 15 per cent. since my staff began reducing weight and the overall efficiency of the office has increased by at least 20 per cent."

THAT'S A BIRD DOG

State of the world today is described to new arrival Blundy, chihuahua pup, by wise old budgie Hadji Salim. Blundy is one of three born to pet of Mrs. Lilly Van Dittmars, 502 Selkirk. Salim displays lively curiosity in the pups, was quick to make friends with them. (Photo by Bill Mawle.)

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN FABLE FOR TODAY

Once upon a long, long time ago, the good citizens of this, the fairest city of them all, threatened to secede from Canada if they weren't provided with direct connections with the lower mainland of B.C.

It is typical of this, the fairest city of them all, that cooler heads prevailed, and year after year, the cooler heads said, let's not secede this year, let's secede NEXT year.

And the good citizens waited, and waited, and waited, but next year never came.

But the Canadian Pacific Railway came, and it bought out the steamer service from Victoria to Vancouver, and it bought out the railway from Victoria to Nanaimo and points north, and it operated freight and passenger services to the remote areas of the West Coast.

Still the good citizens huffed and rumbled and demanded a bridge and fast ferry services, and threatened to secede if the articles of Confederation with reference to transportation were not implemented immediately.

If not sooner.

Otherwise, the good citizens would certainly secede, if not next year, the year after.

And all the while, the good citizens berated the CPR for not providing better and faster service, and the good citizens said, let us have our own ferry service, and the good citizens said, why in the name of Tophet don't we have a bridge or a tunnel or something?

So somebody invented the airplane and somebody else invented the motor car (establishing a couple of trends) and the good citizens went down to the Inner Harbor to watch the boats come in and the boats go out, and threatening to secede, if not this year, next year or the year after.

Until finally, after a good many years, the CPR decided the good citizens of this, the fairest city of them all, were NEVER going to get around to seceding.

So the CPR announced this week that there'd be no more direct steamer connection between Victoria and the B.C. mainland.

MORAL: If at first you don't secede, someone else will do it for you.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The younger section of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Thetis Lake.

If weather is wet the meeting will be in the Provincial Museum at 7 p.m.

About $8 cash and a small radio were stolen in Wednesday night break-ins at View Royal, Colwood RCMP said Thursday.

A burglar forced a rear door at the House of Chan Cafe, Old Island Highway, broke a juke box machine and forced open the coin receptacle on a cigarette machine.

At View Royal Garage, also on Island Highway, entry was made the same way, and the radio stolen.

Oliver Day was re-elected president of the Empress local 276, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, representing employees of the Empress Hotel and Crystal Garden at a meeting in Canadian Congress Hall Thursday.

Others elected were: Vice-president, Don McLean; financial secretary, Steve Davis; treasurer, Mrs. Josephine Reid; recording secretary, Richard Little; local chairman, Mrs. Rhoda Erickson; education chairman, Mrs. Dell Bean.

A weather system approaching Vancouver Island "very fast and with a full head of steam" will give Victoria cloudy skies tonight with frequent showers, according to weatherman William Mackie.

There will be partial clearing Saturday, he said, but there will still be shower activity and strong westerly winds.

"Sunday likely will be a day between storms," the weatherman said, "with partial clearing if we are lucky."

Lee Chow, 3297 Douglas, Mark Nan Tong, 76 Gorge Road West, and Harry Wong, 3268 Douglas, appeared in Saanich police court Thursday charged with selling fireworks on a Sunday.

All three pleaded guilty and were fined the minimum of $25 by Magistrate William Ostler.

Pleading guilty to a charge of shoplifting, Mrs. Sheila McBratney, Chandler Hotel, was sentenced in city police court today to one month imprisonment.

She was accused of stealing merchandise from T. Eaton Co. store.

"I needed money for rent," she explained to Magistrate William Ostler. "I've just come out of hospital and I'm unable to work."

The magistrate replied there were public agencies to look after people in need.

Royal Oak High School PTA meeting Monday at 8 p.m. will be addressed by D. W. Brown, supervisor of curriculum and special services for Greater Victoria school board, on the topic "Tools and Methods in Teaching."

"Pot luck supper" will be sponsored by Gordon Head United Church Sunday at 5 p.m. to start off a congregational meeting that will discuss construction of a new church. The supper meeting will be at the Community Hall on Tyndall Avenue.

Three recent Victoria graduates of the Chartered Life Underwriters course of study were honored at a graduation dinner and dance Thursday night at the Sirocco Club.

William McColl, president of the CLU chapter, presented diplomas to Frank J. Adams of North American Life Assurance, Savoy H. Nelson and Thomas H. Watson, both of Metropolitan Life Insurance.

Mr. Ney disclosed that he has paid out $325 to his staff during the past year. One of his top salesmen dropped 60 pounds in 60 days and collected handsomely.

"He has doubled his sales," said Mr. Ney.

Six of the firm's 27 salesmen each have "slimmed" by more than 10 pounds and been paid accordingly. But of the 11 women employees, only three tried to reduce and only one dropped the requisite 10 pounds.

What about the manager himself? Yes, Mr. Ney has dropped his weight from 210 to 170 pounds and feels "100 per cent" better for it.

"The whole scheme has been a tremendous success," he said. "I have recovered what I paid out through the increased efficiency of my staff, and it has also given us favorable publicity."

"Why—do you know I've just had a letter from the Australian Real Estate Board. They heard of my scheme and they want to know all about it."

Mr. Ney hit on the idea just a year ago when he noticed the number of men who were dying of heart attacks in their 40s and 50s.

"In most of these cases, overweight is the primary cause," he said, "and I know from personal experience how it can impair a man's efficiency."

"I used to feel too heavy to work after lunch, and my staff say the same. They are happier and a whole lot more efficient since they cut down on their lunches and on fatty foods generally."

"When I look around I'm amazed that more people don't get rid of their surplus weight. They just don't know what they're missing. Weight reduction is the key to a happier, fuller life."

And there is another angle. Mr. Ney feels most men owe it to their families to stay alive as long as they can, or at least until their children are grown up.

"It is a tragedy that men should die in their late 40s or early 50s," he said.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1960—PAGE 17

New Federal Aid May Cut Saanich Sewer Plan Cost

Restrained Enthusiasm By Builders

Victoria house builders today greeted with restrained enthusiasm Ottawa's Throne Speech promise of "improved terms" for NHA mortgage lending.

Don Smith, president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, said:

"No doubt this is a move in the right direction although it will not likely be of immediate help to the industry."

If the announcement means longer terms with consequent reduced monthly payments, he hopes, there will be an incentive for speculative builders to go after the lower income groups who are most in need of housing.

Contractor George Wheaton commented: "Anything that reduces monthly commitments will be helpful."

'LET'S GET ROLLING, FORGET THE DEBATES'

A Victoria labor official today said he was hopeful that several Throne Speech proposals will create jobs if parliamentarians roll up their sleeves and get cracking.

"Parliament can hold off these needed programs for a month or two by debating on the floor," said Victoria Labor Council secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone.

"They should move quickly to implement these proposals so that the provinces and Ottawa can get some of these programs rolling before the peak unemployment period hits us."

Mr. Toone said many of the government's proposals—relaxation of NHA mortgage terms, railway construction, approval of the Columbia River agreement, more assistance in urban renewal and pollution control programs—would create jobs.

"We certainly need all the work we can get," he added.

He also thought proposed establishment of a productivity council is a step in the right direction.

But Mr. Toone declined comment on a proposal to require disclosure of certain information by foreign-controlled unions and companies, and a forecast that unemployment insurance legislation would be overhauled.

"It's hard to give an opinion on them until we know the details," he said.

Important Bearing On Dec. 8 Voting

Greater Victoria officials today indicated general approval of the Throne Speech proposals but concentrated their interest on a few specific programs which may have an early impact here.

As usual, the government's forecast of legislation was made in general terms only, leaving a number of crucial details for later clarification.

But two proposals could have immediate repercussions here, especially in Saanich.

The first is a proposed relaxation of the terms of NHA mortgages for housing. Depending on the details—it might revive the ailing house construction industry throughout Greater Victoria which has seen a 50 per cent cut-back in activity this year—hitting Saanich hardest of all.

HELP SAANICH

Another proposal—relating to water pollution control programs—conceivably could affect outcome of the Dec. 8 vote in Saanich on two sewer bylaws that have been defeated once before.

The Throne Speech said the government will propose long-term Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loans covering up to two-thirds the cost of projects to correct community water pollution problems, with the government writing off 25 per cent of any such loan spent on work done before April, 1963.

The assistance is understood to be aimed at trunk sewers and sewage treatment plants.

CUT COST

If Saanich could qualify for the assistance, it would drastically reduce the cost to ratepayers in the Cadboro Bay-Mount Tolmie area of the proposed $465,000 trunk sewer for that area.

A federal loan for most of the work would cut interest rates on the debentures and if the project was completed by 1963 the municipality would, in effect, get a grant covering one-sixth of the cost, about $75,000, through the write-off.

TREATMENT PLANTS

The assistance could go even higher because the provincial health department, after the sewers are in for a test period, may require construction of a $400,000 treatment plant.

If this happened, the same

HOME REPAIR INCENTIVE

Tax Refund Plan Wins Supporters

Three concrete suggestions for face-lifting Victoria's shabby areas emerged from the "Stop the Rot" conference on urban renewal which opened at the Empress Hotel today.

They were:

1. Partial remission of taxes to owners of dilapidated premises who carry out improvements and repairs.
2. Establishment of mixed housing areas to include apartment blocks, single dwellings and duplexes so as to attract a combination of single persons and families of different income groups.
3. Formation of an inter-municipal committee to co-ordinate an urban renewal program throughout Greater Victoria and eliminate bottlenecks.

This renewal program is now under intensive study by the Capital Region Planning Board staff, with special attention to the James Bay and Wharf Street areas.

The federal government is paying 75 per cent of the $25,000 survey, with the city contributing the balance.

U.S. Navy Picket Ship Arrives Early

The United States navy radar picket ship U.S.S. Interceptor will arrive at Esquimalt Harbor at 5 p.m. today, instead of 8:30 a.m. Saturday as originally planned.

The Interceptor will berth at the government graving dock landing wharf. Those with invitations are asked to be on board before 9 a.m. Saturday, entering through the main gate to the drydock.

BETTER TO LEAD

At the conference a panel of five speakers agreed that property owners in poorer localities should be encouraged to improve their premises by partial remission of property taxes.

"It is better to lead than to drive," said Victoria realtor Jack Mears, commenting on a suggestion that the municipalities should "enforce" the proper maintenance of residential properties.

"Forcing people to improve their premises would be an invasion of privacy," said planning commissioner Arthur Saunders.

Said radio commentator Dick Batey: "Most people respond better to leadership and encouragement than force."

Mrs. D. R. McLeod, a Victoria housewife, also favored partial remission of taxes.

FIVE YEARS

"We have to face the fact that many people who buy homes do not stay in them more than five or seven years, and because of lack of civic pride, they are not interested

Three frigates of the RCN Pacific Command will leave Esquimalt Jan. 9 on a three-month training cruise to Hawaii, Fiji, New Zealand, Australia and Samoa, the first RCN visit to the Antipodes since the cruiser Ontario's 1958 voyage.

Embarked in HMC Ships Sussexvale, New Glasgow and Beacon Hill will be 36 senior year cadets from HMCS Venture, the naval officer training establishment at Esquimalt.

During the 20,000-mile voyage, the cadets will take up watch keeping duties in all departments of the ships, as well as continuing academic studies.

The three-ship squadron will be commanded by Capt. E. T. G. Madgwick, commander of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron.

Commanding officers of the ships are Lt.-Cmdr. H. D. Joy, Sussexvale; Lt.-Cmdr. I. A. Macpherson, New Glasgow, and Lt.-Cmdr. A. G. Kilpatrick, Beacon Hill.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. I know the crosses of the union in our flag, but where did the name "Jack" come from in "Union Jack"? L.J.

A. Union Jack is actually a misnomer for the union flag. Jack, in relation to flags, is used as a diminutive, i.e., small flag. For instance, a ship's flag of smaller size than the ensign, used at sea as a signal, or as a mark of distinction; specifically, the small flag indicating nationality which is flown from the jack-staff. In British use the jack has been, since the 17th century, a small-sized "Union Flag" which has also been, since 1707, inserted in the upper left hand corner of the ensign; hence the name "union jack" is frequently and improperly applied to the union flag itself.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on gold coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Give Youngsters a Treat!
Try Marshmallow Creme

By PENNY SAVER

Chatting with a neighbor's son the other day, I found him absolutely thrilled about new sandwiches his mother had packed in his school lunch box that day. Knowing how difficult it is to keep school lunches from being dull, I couldn't rest until I'd learned her secret! It's marshmallow creme that comes in an 8½-ounce jar that sells at 37 cents.

This smart woman spreads half a bun with peanut butter, tops it with a coating of creme, browns until golden under the broiler and produces lunches that make her son the envy of his classroom! Another way she dresses up lunches is by making sandwiches that contain her child's favorite jam or jelly, combined with this cream.

It's also delicious when used as a topping for desserts or in cake icings.

Do you ever have trouble at your home trying to find a soup that will please the family and not bring accusation, "We always have this kind!" from the small fry? If you do, really surprise them and try some of the turtle soup that's from England.

Soup comes in packages that contain four tablets, each sufficient for one serving. To serve, simply pop a tablet into a cup, cover with boiling water and salt and pepper to taste. Package is priced at 39 cents.

Career girls who live alone or housewives who often tend to skip lunch rather than cook something for just one person will bless manufacturer of canned goods that is now producing one-serving cans.

Included in this selection of foods that come in cans containing 8½ ounces are wieners and beans, priced at 22 cents; meat balls with gravy, selling at 24 cents; good rib-sticking stew, 25 cents, and chili con carne, costing 22 cents. THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"What have you got against peace and quiet?"

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For the Greatest Benefits
Regular Exercise Essential

Q. "I read in one of your previous articles that to get any results from exercising you have to exercise every day. You said it could be dangerous if you do it one day, skip a few days and then exercise the next day. I had been exercising regularly to slim down my hips, but four days ago I caught the flu and have not been able to exercise for that long. Will it be dangerous for me to start in again? Should I start slowly?"

A. You misunderstood something I wrote, evidently. I did not mean that it is dangerous to miss a few days, but meant to indicate that for the greatest benefits in both health and beauty, regularity is essential. Start in a little slowly so that your muscles will not become sore.

Q. "I wonder if you would answer a question for me. I am 31 years old, 5 feet, 5½ inches tall and weigh 135 pounds. With the exception of a nine-year differential in age these statistics are the same as when I married. At that time my measurements were bust 34½ inches, waist 26 and hips 35. I now discover that I have added two inches to each measurement. Since there has been no weight gain how can you account for it?"

"My job before I was married was not exactly sedentary but didn't begin to compare with chasing four over-active pre-school children around. I am baffled by this state of affairs."

A. The difference in your measurements probably is due to lax muscles. You have evidently had four children in a comparatively short time. Therefore, your abdominal muscles have been well stretched. You will have to exercise to recondition them. You also may have dropped sports since you have such confining duties at home. Of course posture also can make a difference in your measurements. Don't slip in that category.

Q. "How many calories are there in cream? I hear different opinions about this."

A. It depends on the kind of cream. There are 60 calories in a tablespoon of heavy cream, 30 in a tablespoon of light cream and 30 in a tablespoon of sour cream.

The bust is an important part of your figure both from a health and beauty standpoint. My new 10-cent booklet tells about the proper care of the bust and gives you tips on how you can make your bust-line more attractive. If you would like to have it, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the booklet, "Your Bust," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Saturday, December 3 at 2 p.m., in Gordon United Church, Langford, with Rev. Gordon Danglefield officiating. Miss Hull is a graduate of the 1960 class of Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing. (Miss Hull's photo by Chevrons, and Mr. Felker's by Kandik Kamera.)

Sidney Anglican Church Attractive
Setting for Ward-Green Wedding

St. Andrew's Anglican Church in Sidney was decorated with baskets of mauve and white chrysanthemums for recent wedding of Miss Barbara Yvonne Green and John Lionel Ward. Canon F. Vaughn-Birch officiated at the evening ceremony, and Mrs. E. Richardson played organ music.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Green of Bazar Bay Road, Saanichton, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ward of Marysville, B.C.

A white floor-length gown of rose point lace over satin was worn by the attractive bride. Basque bodice had lily point sleeves and a scalloped Sabrina neckline outlined with iridescent sequins. Three tiers of the lace formed the graceful full hooped skirt. A dainty cap of satin and seed pearls held a finger-tip veil that was bordered with the lace. Her bouquet was red roses, Mr. Green gave his daughter in marriage.

Matron of honor, Mrs. G. Donaldson, and the three other attendants, Miss Carol Green, the bride's sister, Mrs. B. Mitchell and Mrs. D. Fraser, all wore identically styled gowns of lilac sheer organza, with matching maribou feather headresses. They carried Colonial bouquets.

Don Ward stood with his brother as best man and the ushers were Don Green, G. Donaldson and D. Gudbrand.

At a reception in Sidney Hotel, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Ward assisted in receiving guests. The former wore a two-piece copper brocade dress with moss green accessories, and the latter a beige lace over green taffeta gown with green accessories. Their corsages were carnations.

A three-tier cake topped with red sweetheart roses, centered the bride's table, with mauve and white chrysanthemums and white candles in silver holders. H. Carbery proposed the toast.

The bride donned a fitted purple wool suit with small white feathered hat and black accessories for a honeymoon trip by motor to the United States. Her corsage was a mauve orchid.

Out-of-town guests included grandparents of both principals, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. A. Green of Crofton, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Meyer, who came from Saskatchewan for the wedding.

IN AUSTRALIA

Plague, Drought, Mice!

By PAT DUFOUR

Mrs. Eva Pocock's experience of farm life on the west coast of southern Australia sounds like something out of the Book of Job.

Visiting in Victoria with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith of Logan Avenue, she recounts it this way.

"We had nothing but plagues. The first year it was grasshoppers. We couldn't see the sun for them. They settled on the crops and peeled off every inch of foliage—just like skinning a banana."

"What money we had saved we used to plant a new crop of wheat for the next year. It came up good but when we were in the middle of harvesting—then it was mice!"

MILES OF MICE

"Thousands of them! They crawled up my arms as I helped bag the wheat, and my husband told me to put on a pair of trousers and tie a bow-yang (strap) around them to stop them running up my legs. It was horrible but my husband kept kidding me about screaming over a little mouse while I hadn't been afraid to get a lion."

After the second year of trials on their farm came seven years of drought. Her husband used to ride 18 miles on his horse to get water for a well.

"'Twas a bit brackish but we had to put up with it. One day, though, the children were crying for water and I just couldn't wait until he got back.

With no formal education Mrs. Eva Pocock still has a way of describing Australia that makes her in much demand as a school lecturer.

"Taking off my shoes and stockings, I walked through sand for two miles carrying two pails over a wooden pole. I shinned up a railroad structure and, using my belt as a rope, lowered the buckets down a railroad tank, one by one. Then I walked back with the water."

"Sure it was stealing, and if I'd been caught I guess I'd have been fined. But when your children are thirsty that sort of thing doesn't count."

CONVINCING SPEAKER

This 76-year-old globe trotter—she's now on a year-long world trip—has been much in demand in Canada as a lecturer in both private and public schools, speaking on her native continent of which she knows every inch. Leaving here, Monday, she's due to appear on a Vancouver television show.

All this, without ever having gone to school. She's never had a lesson in her life.

She has an inherent instinct for teaching, probably developed during her years on the farm. "We brought up five children there and I bought myself a Bible and some maps and taught them myself. Neighborhood children used to ride miles every morning to attend, too. I sent for some religious scrolls and had them pasted all around the room. We had Sunday school every week."

START AGAIN

Finally losing their crops and animals through drought the Pococks walked off their farm empty-handed—just as they had come to it 10 years before—and started out to make a new life in Adelaide. Here, this enterprising mother was determined to help keep the family together and set out to get a job. Having no business training, she bought herself a set of instruction books and taught herself shorthand, typewriting and double entry bookkeeping.

It paid off. Mrs. Pocock landed a job as a secretary

CANADA LAGS IN EDUCATION

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Philippe Garigue, dean of the faculty of social sciences at the University of Montreal, criticized Canadians Thursday night for lagging behind in education and doing nothing to revamp their universities to meet today's needs.

"A few more years... and we shall be dependent on scientific and intellectual developments in other countries, as we now are dependent on cars made in other countries and put together in Canada," he told a meeting of the Insurance Institute of the Province of Quebec.

Traditional Ritual Set Against Colorful Backdrop of Fashion

OTTAWA — Slim-fitting gowns rather than bouffant were predominant as Parliament opened Thursday with traditional ritual set against a backdrop of the fashion world's latest creations.

Short formals were conspicuous by their rarity but this season's color abandon and trend toward rich satin brocades and lace were evident.

Mrs. Georges Vanier, wife of the Governor-General, was a regal figure in her gown of soft turquoise slipper satin, contrasting with the rich tones of the red-carpeted Senate chamber. As jewelry she wore a triple strand of pearls, pearl earrings and a diamond watch. Her accessories were silver.

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the prime minister, wore a gown of ivory brocade styled with square neckline, long sleeves and moulded bodice. It was accented by a necklace of five large amethysts on a three-strand gold chain.

Mrs. Lester B. Pearson, wife of the opposition leader, wore a black velvet sheath-style dress featuring a white satin cummerbund.

FORMALITY RETURNS

Formality—a custom in pre-war days—returned to the opening ceremony when the Queen opened Parliament in 1957. In 1958, Senate speaker Mark Drouin made formal dress a requirement for opening ceremonies.

The rule, however, does not extend to women MPs who choose less formal, street-length attire to match dark suits worn by their male colleagues.

POPULAR LINE

Saris worn by diplomats' wives as their national dress were also adapted for a few evening gowns, following another popular fashion of slim-fitting formal attire.

A new woman senator—Mrs. Harry S. Quatt of Quebec City—and a new woman MP—Judy LaMarsh, Liberal member for Niagara Falls—were sworn into office in time to take part in the opening.

Illness prevented Senator Cairine Wilson of Ottawa from attending. For the first woman appointed to the Canadian Sen-

Fine Imported Lace In Wedding Gown

For her recent wedding in Central Baptist Church, Miss Patricia Ann Mawson chose a gown of white imported lace over satin with round neckline appliqued with seed pearls. Her chapel-length veil flared from a coronet of mother of pearl. Red roses and feathered carnations were in her cascade bouquet.

The groom is Allan Lewis Wedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wedman, 3220 Frechette Street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mawson, 2868 Colquitz Avenue.

Tall baskets of chrysanthemums, heather and ivy decorated the church and heather and white bows marked the guest pews. Mr. Mawson gave his daughter in marriage. Rev. Robert Holmes heard the wedding vows.

Miss H. English, maid of honor, wore a dress of mauve embroidered taffeta. Matron of honor, Mrs. J. McNee, was in a gown of beige embroidered taffeta while the bridesmaid, Miss S. Wedman, wore turquoise. All had matching headpieces of velvet and net and carried cascade bouquets.

D. Nex was best man and T. Dent, D. Graham and W. Bradshaw acted as ushers. At a reception in Lougheed's Banquet Hall, tables were decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums, ivy leaves and heather. On the head table a three-tier heart-shaped cake was flanked by pink carnations and white candles in silver candelabra.

Proposing the bridal toast was A. Morrison. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A. Wedman, of Vancouver.

For a honeymoon trip to an unknown destination the bride changed into a cobalt blue Blin and Blin suit with beige accessories and a corsage of gold feathered chrysanthemums.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Wedman will live at 4113 Quadra Street.

DEAR ABBY

Lose Her—But Quick!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY — Since I moved near my sister-in-law my life has been a nightmare. I pack three lunches and say goodbye to my family at 8:20 a.m., and before I can turn around, here she comes with her two boys, 3 and 4. She sits down and starts yacking while the boys amuse themselves skating on my floors and arranging the furniture so they can jump from one piece to another.

This morning I had to call a plumber to fix the toilet after they flushed a rubber doll, some plastic boats and four wash cloths down there. They also pulled the thermostat off the wall and cut up some patterns I was saving. The only time their mother shows any sign of disciplining them is when they fight. Then she just hits them over the head with her purse.

I've asked her many times please to phone before she comes (so I can hide) but she says, "I only stay a minute" — then she stays until the 12 o'clock whistle blows and I'm stuck with them for lunch. How can I get rid of these visits? I don't want her mad at me. When she has it in for someone, she makes up lies and ruins their reputations.

READY FOR A STRAIT-JACKET.

DEAR READY: Don't worry about your reputation — it's your sanity that's important now. Tell her in a friendly way that you can't have morning visitors because you have work to do. If this fails, keep your door locked and put cotton in your ears. "Dropper-inners" aren't as easily hurt as you think.

DEAR ABBY: There are six of us children (all married) in the family and every Christmas we go through the same thing. We have always pitched in to buy our parents one nice gift from all of us. One sister is behind three years for her share and one brother has never put in his share. We would rather buy one nice gift than six cheaper ones. None of us are poor. What do you suggest?

TREASURER.

Bosses at Fault?

(CP) — Shorthand-typists are scarce and get high wages because seven out of 10 bosses cannot dictate a letter, said a speaker at the British Institute of Management conference. He said many executives have never been taught to use a dictating machine and are too self-conscious to learn.

DEAR TREASURER: Six light in my bedroom. I am 74 and still do.

MRS. T.F.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISGUSTED SUBURBAN FATHER: Learn how to say NO!

Building boys is easier than mending men.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL their letters.

I was frightened so bad that cold sweat would run down my back. No one could convince me that there was nothing to be afraid of. I was fortunate in that my parents never laughed at me. Instead, they let me sleep with a small letters.

BRIDGE LESSON
By OSWALD JACOBY
In presenting the Jacoby slam convention I want to make it clear that I do not disapprove of Blackwood in the slightest. While I have referred to my convention I must point out that 90 percent of the time when I ask for aces my bidding is identical with straight Blackwood bidding. One feature of proper Blackwood and Jacoby bidding is that when you bid a conventional four no-trump you should have already made up your mind to bid six should your side hold three aces. You might also plan to bid six only, even though your partner's response accounted for all four.

K HAS NEW FORMULA FOR SUMMIT TALKS

LONDON (UPI)—An Iron Curtain diplomat reported today that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has a new summit formula which would eliminate the disarmament issue from the next meeting of the Big Four.

The source said Khrushchev has in mind a "two-tier" strategy which would call for:

A meeting of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to discuss the Berlin issue and the problem of Germany in general.

A much wider meeting, including neutrals and the new nations that are emerging, to negotiate on global disarmament.

Behind the strategy lies Khrushchev's apparent unwillingness to limit disarmament talks to the Big Four powers.

It also is considered a conciliatory gesture toward Red China.

BY LIBERALS

Jobless Benefits For Widows, Illness Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Members of Parliament today proposed extensions of unemployment insurance to cover a wider range of beneficiaries.

Paul Martin, MP for Essex East, gave notice of a resolution asking the government to consider extending unemployment insurance benefits to Canadians who are unemployed because of illness.

Gabriel Roberge (L-Megantic) proposed a resolution calling on the government to extend unemployment insurance benefits to the widow of any Canadian worker entitled to receive them.

Other back-bench members are proposing the federal government go deeper into the field of education.

Notice was given today of resolutions calling for tax exemptions for tuition fees, encouragement for technical schooling, and a system of national scholarships.

Mervyn Hardie (L-Mackenzie River) proposed a resolution to legalize lotteries in Canada for raising money for hospitals and education.

Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming) gave notice of a new, wider and more modern bill to govern divorce.

He said in an interview the proposed measure is patterned after legislation now in force in Australia and New Zealand. It would permit dissolution and annulment of marriage in cases of cruelty, desertion, chronic alcoholism, and insanity lasting for periods of two years or more.

It would also make it possible for residents of a province—such as Quebec and Newfoundland—which has no divorce court to go to a neighboring province and obtain a divorce.

ADOPT NEW PROCEDURES Under the measure, the judge or marriage counsellor appointed by the divorce court would be required to try to save the marriage.

The bill, Mr. Peters said, also provides a formula for care and custody of the children of a divorced couple.

"We will have to adopt some new divorce procedures, or at least start to work towards a real solution to the problem we now have, when adultery is the only ground for divorce and we know some cases are rigged," Mr. Peters said.

He also proposed a bill, submitted annually by the CCF group for a number of years, to transfer Parliament's jurisdiction in divorce to the Exchequer Court of Canada, sitting in Ottawa.

Mr. Peters said the CCF would prefer to see the first bill passed.

Columbia Hydro Talks Nov. 23-24

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canada-British Columbia liaison committee on the Columbia River will meet in Ottawa Nov. 23-24, Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton said today.

Fulton, who headed the Canadian negotiating team which recently reached agreement with the United States on a Columbia treaty, said financial arrangements for construction in B.C. as well as treaty details would be discussed with the provincial representatives.

CHANCELLOR ADENAUER

... no policy change

German Chief Will Talk With Mac

BONN (Reuters)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today he will go to London in December for talks with Prime Minister Macmillan.

British officials said the meeting had been set for December 12 and 13.

Prospects of an East-West summit conference in 1961 and the problems of Berlin were expected to be the main topics of the talks.

Adenauer plans to visit Washington in February and hopes to have talks then with new president John F. Kennedy.

"BOMBERS UNFOUNDED"

Adenauer complained today there had been unfounded rumors recently that he had changed his attitude toward the Soviet Union.

The rumors arose from a recent interview in which Adenauer was quoted as saying Nikita Khrushchev was "a man one can talk to" and in which he left open the possibility of a meeting with the Soviet premier in Bonn.

Adenauer said there had been no change in his policy. What happened was that Mr. Khrushchev told the West German ambassador at a reception in the Kremlin that he wanted to improve relations with this country.

Adenauer said that there were big differences between West Germany and Russia but he nevertheless believed the government should adopt a peaceful and normal tone in exchanges with the Soviet Union.

'WAKE UP VICTORIA' SAYS MAYOR

Mayor Percy Scurrell said today he has never known so much apathy towards Victoria's civic elections as exists at present.

"I'll be surprised if we get 40 per cent of our people to vote on election day," he told the "Stop the Rot" urban renewal conference at the Empress Hotel. (See page 17.)

"There is no sign of any real interest and this is a most deplorable state of affairs. Municipal business is everyone's business. It goes down to the very grass roots of our democracy.

"I only wish Victorians would wake up to their responsibilities."

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A three-judge federal tribunal today refused to lift orders integrating New Orleans public schools, but left the door open "for consideration" of a state request.

The judges adjourned a three-hour hearing and left in effect orders that have integrated two city elementary schools for the last five days.

CALDOUGH REMANDED

LONDON (Reuters)—Two men accused of conspiring to defraud investors in Canada were remanded until Nov. 25 when they appeared in court today.

The remand was granted after the prosecuting attorney, A. Babington, said the Crown was awaiting papers from Canada, not likely to be received for some weeks yet.

The men are Roland Smith, 46, described as a publicity assistant, of Sheffield, England, and Frederick Caldwell, 32, an investment dealer, formerly of Vancouver, but now of London.

Smith was allowed continuing bail of $5,000 ($16,000). Caldwell, unable to raise $11,000 ($30,000) was remanded in custody.

'World Peace Threat'

HAVANA (AP)—The Fidel Castro regime charged today that U.S. naval patrols in the Caribbean were an intervention in Latin American affairs, a grave threat to world peace and a smokescreen for an attack on Cuba.

President Eisenhower Thursday ordered U.S. warships and planes to be ready to seek out and prevent Communist-led attacks from abroad on Guatemala and Nicaragua.

The President acted on the written request of the two governments, targets in the last week of unsuccessful uprisings which they charged were assisted by Cubans.

The action came as plots and possible uprisings were reported in two other countries—Bolivia and El Salvador.

The U.S. state department said warships, including at least four destroyers and the aircraft carrier Shangri-La, were already patrolling the high seas between Cuba and the Central American coast.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John Kennedy met with the Central Intelligence Agency chief today for a briefing on the tense Caribbean area.

The department said, however, that any action against invasion forces would be limited to the three-mile territorial waters of Guatemala and Nicaragua.

Three Cuban newspapers carried a story by the Soviet news agency Tass warning of invasion plots against Cuba being prepared in Nicaragua and Guatemala.

'FRAUGHT WITH DANGER' A Moscow radio broadcast recorded in London said the U.S. navy alert is "fraught with the danger of a military conflict."

The broadcast, noting the White House statement that the move was requested by the Guatemalan and Nicaraguan governments, said: "The rotten anti-popular regimes of these two countries can exist only with U.S. support."

The semi-official newspaper Revolution ran a huge banner headline saying: "U.S. endangers world peace: Yankee military occupation of Central America could be step toward attacking Cuba."

El Mundo's banner said: "U.S. intervenes in internal struggles in Guatemala and Nicaragua."

In Peking, Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China charged that U.S. air and naval patrols in the Caribbean were armed threats against Cuba.

Chou spoke at a reception for a visiting Cuban economic delegation headed by Maj. Ernesto Che Guevara, president of the National Bank of Cuba, Peking Radio said.

Chou said the American move was a means to "threaten Cuba further by force of arms." He promised Red China will continue to support Cuba. He did not specify what kind of support.

The reaction of Cuban officials and the government-controlled press and radio was indignant. The newspaper La Calle said the president's action was an intervention in Guatemala and Nicaragua and a grave threat to world peace.

Pastorita Nunez, a high ranking Cuban official as head of the government savings fund, said the move would not be affected.

The pending proposal calls for cutting imports by an average of 60,000 barrels daily east of the Rocky Mountains. Imports of re-Rocky Mountains. Imports of residual oil would not be affected.

BROKEN LINE indicates Caribbean sea areas where U.S. warships are engaged in patrols.

SOVIET BLOC LOSES

UN to Debate Kasavubu Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly decided today to plunge immediately into a debate on the seating of a Congolese delegation headed by President Joseph Kasavubu. The decision was a defeat for the Soviet bloc and an African group led by Ghana.

The vote was on a motion by Ghana to adjourn the debate until after a UN conciliation commission had a chance to seek a settlement of the Congo conflict. The motion was defeated by a vote of 36 in favor, 51 against and 11 abstentions.

Ghana's permanent delegate, Alex Quaison-Sackey, had moved for a further delay in the seating of the Congolese delegation headed by President Kasavubu.

Ghana, along with some other Asian and African countries and the Soviet bloc, sought the seating of a rival delegation named by deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

SEEMS CONGO PARLEY The adjournment proposal came amid these other developments:

1. President Fulbert Youlou of the neighboring Congo, whose capital is Brazzaville, called for a conference of African heads of government to seek a solution of the conflict in the other Congo, whose capital is Leopoldville.

2. Kasavubu accused Lumumba of deliberately using terrorism as a weapon to aid in an alleged plan to set up a dictatorship.

OTTAWA (CP)—A move from the Commons back benches to abolish the death penalty for murder was put before the House again today.

How far its sponsors will push it, likely, will depend on the nature of the government's own bill dealing with the subject, promised in the Throne Speech Thursday.

Frank McGee (PC—Scarborough) gave formal notice he will introduce again his bill to do away with the death penalty for all crimes except wartime treason.

A two-day debate on the bill last session did not come to a vote, but showed a wide split of opinion among members.

John Drysdale (PC—Burnaby-Richmond) also gave notice he will present again his bill which would abolish the death penalty for certain types of murder, such as crimes of passion, while retaining the supreme penalty for premeditated murder and slayings that occur in the commission of other crimes of violence. This is in line with recent legislation adopted in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Drysdale's bill also would substitute lethal gas for hanging as the method of execution.

The government disclosed in the Throne Speech, Thursday that it will present its own legislation on capital punishment.

There was no hint of what specific proposals the government has in mind. Informed speculation was that it might follow the general lines of Mr. Drysdale's proposal.

Another measure sponsored by Mr. McGee would do away with use of the lash and strap as a possible punishment for certain crimes.

Judges Bill Passed By U.K. Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons today formally passed without discussion a bill to provide that the judges of the superior courts of Canada shall in future retire at the age of 75. The bill now goes to the House of Lords before receiving the royal assent.

THOSE UNDER 14, THAT IS!

'Topsy-Sweet' Tipplers Cut Off

LONDON (CP)—British children have had the liquor laws tightened around them. From now on, tipplers under 14 years of age are going to be cut off.

Their only legal source of booze has been in the form of "tipsy sweets"—candy with alcoholic centres.

Providing the kids had the capacity for the chocolate casing, and the money to buy these somewhat expensive continental imports, it was possible for them to chew their way into an elated frame of mind.

In fact one manufacturer advertised, with apparent pride, that its products contained "enough alcohol to make children tipsy."

Well, in future this will be a privilege to be enjoyed only by the older tipplers—those over 14. And even these veterans will have to buy it from stores licensed to sell alcoholic beverages.

Dennis Vosper, Home Office under-secretary, gave this assurance in the House of Commons Thursday after hearing several members attack previous controls, or lack of them.

Vosper explained that until now the centres of the candy were not in liquid form and therefore beyond the control of licensing laws. But now all these candies did have liquid centres and controls could be applied.

Vosper said he had sampled one that morning. "Hold on to that dispatch box," he was told by Harriet Slater, Labor member for Stoke-on-Trent. "I, too, sampled them and they were very strong."

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

What is a Mastodon?

The mastodon was a remote relative of the elephant and he has his own branch on the fascinating elephant family tree. He thrived in North America until perhaps a thousand years ago. His fossil remains have been found in many places throughout the United States and Canada. He was very like a modern elephant, though a little shorter and his body was longer. The mastodon was a browsing animal who enjoyed the leafy foliage that flourished in the swamps of the last Ice Age.

The family history of the elephant goes back at least 50 or 60 million years. The elephant ancestors lived in Egypt when the horse ancestors were just getting started in the New World. The original ancestors were only 25 inches tall and had no tusks or trunk. Nevertheless, the experts tell us that these little animals had the characteristics which made them elephants.

In a few million years, the descendants of the original elephants had become more than three feet tall. Their fossil remains show that a long nose was beginning to develop, though the teeth were still normal. In the New World, the little horse was growing bigger and learning to stand on tiptoe. As time passed, the members of the elephant family grew bigger and bigger. They also grew lower jaws and two upper teeth began to look like tusks.

Some 25 million years ago, the elephants had reached their full size. However, they still had the long lower jaw and four long tusks instead of two. These powerful animals were roamers. They traveled into Europe, into Asia and somewhere they got to North America. To do this, they may have crossed a land bridge from Northern Europe to Canada or another land bridge from Asia to Alaska.

From this time almost until the present, there were many kinds of elephants in the New World. The huge imperial elephant roamed through California, Texas and Mexico. This fellow stood two feet taller than our modern Jumbo and his great curved tusks were 16 feet long. The Columbian elephant, a little larger than a modern Indian elephant, had spiral tusks, often overlapping at the tips. By this time the four-tusked elephants had disappeared and the lower jaw had become much smaller. All the elephants now had two tusks and a long, pliable trunk.

To the north, in Arctic regions, lived the woolly mammoth. He was somewhat smaller than a modern elephant but he may have looked bigger because he was covered with a floor-length coat of coarse hair. To the south lived the mastodon, feeding on trees and shrubs and perhaps wading in the swampland.

Fast-paced living, plus irregular meals or too much smoking or drinking, can often lead to stomach discomfort. But with TUMS you get relief, fast! Just eat a couple of these mild, minty tablets... they go to work immediately to relieve acid indigestion, stop heartburn! Keep a roll of TUMS handy—ready to use any time, any place. No water or glass needed... and there's never any after-taste. TUMS cost so little too!

NEW YORK—Jack Kennedy'll probably be the target of more friendly kidding than any president since "Silent Cal" Coolidge.

Take, for example, a remark at Jack Benny's black-tie party at the Automat—when Jack pretended to wince with pain as he handed out $2 worth of nickels to such famous guests as Helen Hayes, Roy Russell, Irene Dunne, Dina Merrill and Gisele MacKenzie—about $200 worth of nickels in all.

Toots Shor (a Democrat) shouted above the dance music:

"Kennedy's only just been elected and already celebrities in formal dress are eating at the Automat!"

Benny, who got rich pretending to be cheap, told me that as he and some formally-dressed friends set out for the party, the chauffeur of their rented Rolls-Royce said, "Where to?"

"The Automat," Benny answered.

The chauffeur, without looking around, said, "The Automat? You must be Jack Benny!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Frank Sinatra won a stack betting on Kennedy... Barbara Baxley of Stockton, Calif., is the comedy hit of the season in Tennessee Williams' "Period of Adjustment"...

Eli Wallach's father is angry because audiences applaud when Eli, playing a villain, is killed in "The Magnificent Seven"; he says sadly, "That's not nice"...

Announcer Don Wilson, examining a bowl of fruit in his hotel, found an invitation to accept a summons (in a lawsuit concerning a Jack Benny show)...

EARL'S PEARLS: Daytime TV is a wonderful thing—it keeps a lot of women home who might otherwise be out driving.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Total disarmament will never work. The government could never get women to stop wearing perfume.

IT COULD HAPPEN ONLY IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brooklyn is famous as the place where a tree grows and where the Los Angeles Dodgers came from, and it is a place where anything can happen.

Thursday night, for instance, patrolman Thomas Higgins stopped his police cruiser and walked over to a parked car with four men and a big dog in it.

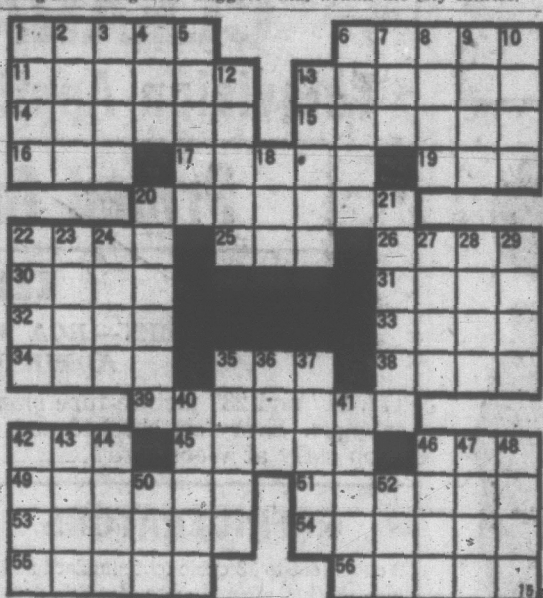

In any place but Brooklyn, a bluecoat, however doughty, might have been at least startled to find that "the big dog" was a 125-pound lion.

Higgins murmured something like "It figures," suggested that all hands, including the jungle's gift to Brooklyn, accompany him to the station house—in their own car, of course.

There, Anthony Ortola, 26, told officers the female lion was named "Cleopatra." He said he was minding her for a friend, identified only as "Frank," who had bought Cleo in a Brooklyn petshop and intended some time or other to give her to a zoo.

While Cleo licked playfully at passing patrolmen's boots and nibbled at their shoelaces, Ortola was given a summons for harboring a wild animal within the city limits.

Salesmen Trade Calories for Bonus Dollars and Double Business

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Employees of a Nanaimo real estate firm are making money by losing weight.

The firm pays $25 for the first 10 pounds of overweight dropped, and $2.50 for each additional pound worked off or fasted off.

Why?

"Because it makes for greater efficiency all round," says Frank Ney, manager of the Nanaimo Realty Co.

"Our sales have gone up 15 per cent since my staff began reducing weight and the over-all efficiency of the office has increased by at least 20 per cent."

Mr. Ney disclosed that he has paid out $325 to his staff during the past year. One of his top salesmen dropped 60 pounds in 60 days and collected handsomely.

"He has doubled his sales," said Mr. Ney.

Six of the firm's 27 salesmen each have "slimmed" by more than 10 pounds and been paid accordingly. But of the 11 women employees, only three tried to reduce and only one dropped the requisite 10 pounds.

What about the manager himself? Yes, Mr. Ney has dropped his weight from 210 to 170 pounds and feels "100 per cent" better for it.

"The whole scheme has been a tremendous success," he said. "I have recovered what I paid out through the increased efficiency of my staff, and it has also given us favorable publicity."

"Why—do you know I've just had a letter from the Australian Real Estate Board. They heard of my scheme and they want to know all about it."

Mr. Ney hit on the idea just a year ago when he noticed the number of men who were dying of heart attacks in their 40s and 50s.

"In most of these cases, overweight is the primary cause," he said, "and I know from personal experience how it can impair a man's efficiency."

"I used to feel too heavy to work after lunch, and my staff say the same. They are happier and a whole lot more efficient since they cut down on their lunches and on fatty foods generally."

"When I look around I'm amazed that more people don't get rid of their surplus weight. They just don't know what they're missing. Weight reduction is the key to a happier, fuller life."

And there is another angle, Mr. Ney feels most men owe it to their families to stay alive as long as they can, or at least until their children are grown up.

"It is a tragedy that men should die in their late 40s or early 50s," he said.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1960—PAGE 17

New Federal Aid May Cut Saanich Sewer Plan Cost

Important Bearing On Dec. 8 Voting

Greater Victoria officials today indicated general approval of the Throne Speech proposals but concentrated their interest on a few specific programs which may have an early impact here.

As usual, the government's forecast of legislation was made in general terms only leaving a number of crucial details for later clarification. But two proposals could have immediate repercussions here, especially in Saanich.

The first is a proposed relaxation of the terms of NHA mortgages for housing. Depending on the details it might revive the ailing house construction industry throughout Greater Victoria which has seen a 50 per cent cut-back in activity this year—hitting Saanich hardest of all.

Also interesting to Saanich Peninsula is the unclarified proposal of federal participation in rural rehabilitation and development.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said he is particularly anxious to learn what the government plans to do in its proposed authorization for CMHC share in conversion of some buildings in a slum clearance program to public housing units.

Presumably, the conversions would be for low-rent accommodation which would not require razing and complete rebuilding.

He recalled that city council had endorsed a brief urging such action and had established a university scholarship for city students entering the physical education field.

"Council is cognizant of the need for encouraging our youth and I'm glad the federal government is taking hold of the problem now."

U.S. Navy Picket Ship Arrives Early

The United States navy radar picket ship U.S.S. Interceptor will arrive at Esquimalt Harbor at 5 p.m. today, instead of 8.30 a.m. Saturday as originally planned.

The converted Liberty ship is on her way to Vancouver, and will pick up a group of invited guests here for the run to the mainland.

The Interceptor will berth at the government graving dock landing wharf. Those with invitations are asked to be on board before 9 a.m. Saturday, entering through the main gate to the drydock.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. I know the crosses of the union in our flag, but where did the name "jack" come from in "Union Jack"? L.J.

A. Union jack is actually a misnomer for the union flag. Jack, in relation to flags, is used as a diminutive, i.e., small flag. For instance, a ship's flag of smaller size than the ensign, used at sea as a signal, or as a mark of distinction; specifically, the small flag indicating nationality which is flown from the jack-staff. In British use the jack has been, since the 17th century, a small-sized "Union Flag" which has also been, since 1707, inserted in the upper left hand corner of the ensign; hence the name "union jack" is frequently and improperly applied to the union flag itself.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Questions and Answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. No coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

'LET'S GET ROLLING, FORGET THE DEBATES'

A Victoria labor official today said he was hopeful that several Throne Speech proposals will create jobs if parliamentarians roll up their sleeves and get cracking.

"Parliament can hold off these needed programs for a month or two by debating on the floor," said Victoria Labor Council secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone.

"They should move quickly to implement these proposals so that the provinces and Ottawa can get some of these programs rolling before the peak unemployment period hits us."

Mr. Toone said many of the government's proposals—relaxation of NHA mortgage terms, railway construction, approval of the Columbia River agreement, more assistance in urban renewal and pollution control programs—would create jobs.

"We certainly need all the work we can get," he added.

He also thought proposed establishment of a productivity council is a step in the right direction.

But Mr. Toone declined comment on a proposal to require disclosure of certain information by foreign-controlled unions and companies, and a forecast that unemployment insurance legislation would be overhauled.

"It's hard to give an opinion on them until we know the details," he said.

HOME REPAIR INCENTIVE

Tax Refund Plan Wins Supporters

Three concrete suggestions for face-lifting Victoria's shabby areas emerged from the "Stop the Rot" conference on urban renewal which opened at the Empress Hotel today.

They were: 1. Part remission of taxes to owners of dilapidated premises who carry out improvements and repairs.

2. Establishment of mixed housing areas to include apartment blocks, single dwellings and duplexes so as to attract a combination of single persons and families of different income groups.

3. Formation of an inter-municipal committee to co-ordinate an urban renewal program throughout Greater Victoria and eliminate bottlenecks.

This renewal program is now under intensive study by the Capital Region Planning Board staff, with special attention to the James Bay and Wharf Street areas.

The federal government is paying 75 per cent of the $25,000 survey, with the city contributing the balance.

BETTER TO LEAD

At the conference a panel of five speakers agreed that property owners in poorer localities should be encouraged to improve their premises by part remission of property taxes.

"It is better to lead than to drive," said Victoria, realtor Jack Mears, commenting on a suggestion that the municipalities should "enforce" the proper maintenance of residential properties.

"Forcing people to improve their premises would be an invasion of privacy," said planning commissioner Arthur Saunders.

Said radio commentator Dick Batey: "Most people respond better to leadership and encouragement than force."

Mrs. D. R. McLeod, a Victoria housewife, also favored part remission of taxes.

FIVE YEARS

"We have to face the fact that many people who buy homes do not stay in them more than five or seven years, and because of lack of civic pride, they are not interested

Restrained Enthusiasm By Builders

Don Smith, president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, said:

"No doubt this is a move in the right direction although it will not likely be of immediate help to the industry."

If the announcement means longer terms with consequent reduced monthly payments, he hopes, there will be an incentive for speculative builders to go after the lower income groups who are most in need of housing.

Contractor George Wheaton commented: "Anything that reduces monthly commitments will be helpful."

RATES TOO HIGH

However, Mr. Wheaton felt that the crux of the problem is the high interest rates.

There is considerable buyer resistance to new housing because of the heavy cost of borrowing money, he said.

He thought many potential new house buyers are sitting tight and waiting for the situation to ease.

Both Mr. Wheaton and Mr. Smith said there is a definite surplus of housing in the Victoria-Vancouver areas but it was not generally of a type lower income families can afford.

If the proposal makes it possible for more families to qualify under the NHA regulations, which limit monthly payments to 27 per cent of gross income, it would help some.

There was no intimation in the announcement that interest rates on NHA loans would be changed immediately or that the government is prepared to pump more money into the building industry.

PRIVATE MONEY

Instead, with NHA mortgages at 6 1/2 per cent and conventional mortgages running around seven per cent, the feeling is that the government hoped to attract more private money into housing by means of the government guarantees on NHA loans overcoming the slight difference in interest rates.

Up to October, NHA loans have accounted for only 25 per cent of the house building in the Greater Victoria area with 211 starts valued at $2,600,519 compared to 462 starts valued at $6,951,609 last year. There were 840 housing starts recorded in the area up to October.

NARROW FIELD

Real estate men are not so hopeful the government's proposal will solve the problem of housing except in the narrow field of new homes.

L. M. Corke, a vice-president of the Victoria Real Estate Board, said the problem goes much deeper than merely building a few more houses. It is a matter of the general economic climate in which many people desired homes but simply can't afford them.

Another realtor, D. G. White, said the government should tackle the problem of bringing older homes under the NHA as is done with the Federal Housing Authority in the U.S.

Arena Fight To Continue

Memorial Arena Commission spent five hours in closed session Thursday on the resignation controversy and decided it needed more time to make up its mind on what to do about it.

"We are going to meet again Monday to continue our deliberations," said W. F. Pinfold today.

Chairman of the arena commission's finance committee, he was moderator at the marathon meeting which heard both sides of the controversy and their lawyers.

Asked if the 4 to 9 p.m. sitting indicated there was more to the situation than just a "clash of personalities" as previously stated, Mr. Pinfold said:

"I don't think so. It's still that—personalities."

DEFINITION

Commission chairman F. G. Mulliner replied to the same question with "it all depends on how you define clash of personalities."

Both men said length of the meeting was largely caused by "very long" briefs submitted by the six employees who resigned last month. They were represented by lawyer E. E. Pearlman.

Arena manager Joe Dukowski, who gave the commission his version of the events, related by the employees, also had a lawyer—M. L. Tyrwhitt Drake.

Mr. Mulliner said it was "up to the commission" to decide whether the commission's final decision or the statements made in the hearing will ever be made public.

MONTÉ ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN FABLE FOR TODAY

Once upon a long, long time ago, the good citizens of this, the fairest city of them all, threatened to secede from Canada if they weren't provided with direct connections with the lower mainland of B.C.

It is typical of this, the fairest city of them all, that cooler heads prevailed, and year after year, the cooler heads said, let's not secede this year, let's secede NEXT year.

And the good citizens waited, and waited, and waited, but next year never came.

But the Canadian Pacific Railway came, and it bought out the steamer service from Victoria to Vancouver, and it bought out the railway from Victoria to Nanaimo and points north, and it operated freight and passenger services to the remote areas of the West Coast.

Still the good citizens huffed and rumbled and demanded a bridge and fast ferry services, and threatened to secede if the articles of Confederation with reference to transportation were not implemented immediately.

If not sooner.

Otherwise, the good citizens would certainly secede, if not next year, the year after.

And all the while, the good citizens berated the CPR for not providing better and faster service, and the good citizens said, let us have our own ferry service, and the good citizens said, why in the name of Tophet don't we have a bridge or a tunnel or something?

So somebody invented the airplane and somebody else invented the motor car (establishing a couple of trends) and the good citizens went down to the Inner Harbor to watch the boats come in and the boats go out, and threatening to secede, if not this year, next year or the year after.

Until finally, after a good many years, the CPR decided the good citizens of this, the fairest city of them all, were NEVER going to get around to seceding.

So the CPR announced this week that there'd be no more direct steamer connection between Victoria and the B.C. mainland.

MORAL: If at first you don't secede, someone else will do it for you.

SEEN AT OTTAWAK HAS NEW FORMULA FOR SUMMIT TALKS

LONDON (UPI)—An Iron Curtain diplomat, reported today that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has a new summit formula which would eliminate the disarmament issue from the next meeting of the Big Four.

The source said Khrushchev has in mind a "two-tier" strategy which would call for:

A meeting of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to discuss the Berlin issue and the problem of Germany in general.

A much wider meeting, including neutrals and the new nations that are emerging, to negotiate on global disarmament.

Behind the strategy lies Khrushchev's apparent unwillingness to limit disarmament talks to the Big Four powers.

It also is considered a conciliatory gesture toward Red China.

Jobless Benefits
For Widows, Illness Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Members of Parliament today proposed extensions of unemployment insurance to cover a wider range of beneficiaries.

Paul Martin, MP for Essex East, gave notice of a resolution asking the government to consider extending unemployment insurance benefits to Canadians who are unemployed because of illness.

Gabriel Roberge (L-Megantic) proposed a resolution calling on the government to extend unemployment insurance benefits to the widow of any Canadian worker entitled to receive them.

Other back-bench members are proposing the federal government go deeper into the field of education.

Notice was given today of resolutions calling for tax exemptions for tuition fees, encouragement for technical schooling, and a system of national scholarships.

Mervyn Hardie (L-Mackenzie River) proposed a resolution to legalize lotteries in Canada for raising money for hospitals and education.

Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming) gave notice of a new, wider and more modern bill to govern divorces.

He said in an interview the proposed measure is patterned after legislation now in force in Australia and New Zealand. It would permit dissolution and annulment of marriage in cases of cruelty, desertion, chronic alcoholism, and insanity lasting for periods of two years or more.

It would also make it possible for residents of a province—such as Quebec and Newfoundland—which has no divorce court to go to a neighboring province and obtain a divorce.

Under the measure, the judge or marriage counsellor appointed by the divorce court would be required to try to save the marriage.

The bill, Mr. Peters said, also provides a formula for care and custody of the children of a divorced couple.

"We will have to adopt some new divorce procedures, or at least start to work towards a real solution to the problem we now have, when adultery is the only ground for divorce, and we know some cases are rigged," Mr. Peters said.

He also proposed a bill, submitted annually by the CCF group for a number of years, to transfer Parliament's jurisdiction in divorce to the Exchequer Court of Canada, sitting in Ottawa.

Mr. Peters said the CCF would prefer to see the first bill passed.

Adenauer complained today there had been unfounded rumors recently that he had changed his attitude toward the Soviet Union.

The rumors arose from a recent interview in which Adenauer was quoted as saying Nikita Khrushchev was "a man one can talk to" and in which he left open the possibility of a meeting with the Soviet premier in Bonn.

Adenauer said there had been no change in his policy. What happened was that Mr. Khrushchev told the West German ambassador at a reception in the Kremlin that he wanted to improve relations with this country.

Adenauer said that there were big differences between West Germany and Russia but he nevertheless believed the government should adopt a peaceful and normal tone.

UN Votes
To Debate
Kasavubu

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly decided today to plunge immediately into a debate on the seating of a Congolese delegation headed by President Joseph Kasavubu.

The decision was a defeat for the Soviet bloc and an African group led by Ghana.

The vote was on a motion by Ghana to adjourn the debate until after a UN conciliation commission had a chance to seek a settlement of the Congo conflict. The motion was defeated by a vote of 36 in favor, 51 against and 11 abstentions.

Ghana, along with some other Asian and African countries and the Soviet bloc, sought the seating of a rival delegation named by deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

The adjournment proposal came amid these other developments:

1. President Fulbert Youlou of the neighboring Congo, whose capital is Brazzaville, called for a conference of African heads of government to seek a solution of the conflict in the other Congo, whose capital is Leopoldville.

2. Kasavubu accused Lumumba of deliberately using terrorism as a weapon to aid in an alleged plan to set up a dictatorship.

May Follow
Britain's Lead

OTTAWA (CP)—A move from the Commons back benches to abolish the death penalty for murder was put before the House again today. How far its sponsors will push it likely will depend on the nature of the government's own bill dealing with the subject, promised in the Throne Speech Thursday.

Frank McGee (PC—Scarborough) gave formal notice he will introduce again his bill to do away with the death penalty for all crimes except wartime treason.

A two-day debate on the bill last session did not come to a vote, but showed a wide split of opinion among members.

John Drysdale (PC—Burnaby-Richmond) also gave notice he will present again his bill which would abolish the death penalty for certain types of murder, such as crimes of passion, while retaining the supreme penalty for premeditated murder and slayings that occur in the commission of other crimes of violence. This is in line with recent legislation adopted in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Drysdale's bill also would substitute lethal gas for hanging as the method of execution.

The government disclosed in the Throne Speech Thursday that it will present its own legislation on capital punishment.

There was no hint of what specific proposals the government has in mind. Informed speculation was that it might follow the general lines of Mr. Drysdale's proposal.

Another measure sponsored by Mr. McGee would do away with use of the lash and strap as a possible punishment for certain crimes.

CALDOUGH

LONDON (Reuters)—Two men accused of conspiring to defraud investors in Canada were remanded until Nov. 25 when they appeared in court today.

The remand was granted after the prosecuting attorney, A. Babington, said the Crown was awaiting papers from Canada, not likely to be received for some weeks yet.

Smith was allowed continuing bail of $6,000 ($16,000). Caldwell, unable to raise $11,000 ($30,000) was remanded in custody.

BONN (Reuters)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today he will go to London in December for talks with Prime Minister Macmillan.

British officials said the meeting had been set for December 12 and 13.

Prospects of an East-West summit conference in 1961 and the problems of Berlin were expected to be the main topics of the talks.

Adenauer plans to visit Washington in February and hopes to have talks then with new president John F. Kennedy.

Adenauer complained today there had been unfounded rumors recently that he had changed his attitude toward the Soviet Union.

THOSE UNDER 14, THAT IS!

'Tipsy-Sweet' Tipplers Cut Off

LONDON (CP)—British children have had the liquor laws tightened around them. From now on, tipplers under 14 years of age are going to be cut off.

Their only legal source of booze has been in the form of "tipsy sweets"—candy with alcoholic centres.

Providing the kids had the capacity for the chocolate casing, and the money to buy these somewhat expensive continental imports, it was possible for them to chew their way into an elated frame of mind.

In fact one manufacturer advertised, with apparent pride, that its products contained "enough alcohol to make children tipsy."

Well, in future this will be a privilege to be enjoyed only by the older tipplers—those over 14. And even these veterans will have to buy it from stores licensed to sell alcoholic beverages.

Dennis Vosper, Home Office under-secretary, gave this assurance in the House of Commons Thursday after hearing several members attack previous controls, or lack of them.

Vosper explained that until now the centres of the candy were not in liquid form and therefore beyond the control of licensing laws. But now all these candies did have liquid centres and controls could be applied.

Vosper said he had sampled one that morning. "Hold on to that dispatch box," he was told by Harriet Slater, Labor member for Stoke-on-Trent. "I, too, sampled them and they were very strong."

'Disturbed Night'

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill, 85, who suffered a fall at home Tuesday, had a "rather disturbed night," it was announced today.

There were 247,000 cases of smallpox throughout the world in 1958, but thanks to immunization Canada has not had a reported case since 1946.

HEALTH SERVICE for Indians on northern Vancouver Island is discriminatory, according to Rev. Peter Kelley, DD, Indian United Church minister. Commenting on criticism Thursday by former Cowichan chief Elwood Modeste of doctors paid by the Indian affairs branch, Dr. Kelley said medical men from Campbell River will not treat patients unless they receive money in advance. In some areas doctors "do a good job, while in others the prejudice of doctors interferes," he said. There have been cases in Nanaimo where Indians had to try to prove on the telephone that a person was gravely ill before some doctors would go to their homes, he said.

'MINISTER OF SEAWAYS' NEW GAGLARDI TITLE?

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi could probably have another title just for the asking.

During a Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce discussion on the third government ferry, proposed terminals for the Mill Bay-Brentwood run, and other government ferry plans, a member reasoned that Mr. Gagliardi appeared more interested in his ferries than his roads.

"Perhaps they should make him minister of seaways," he suggested.

New Oil Imports Cut Proposed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Announcement of a public hearing on an interior department proposal for a further cut in oil imports, to be effective Jan. 1, caught some oil industry spokesmen by surprise.

They had expected the proposal would go through without further ado. And perhaps the oil import administration, an agency of the interior department, had the same expectation. But officials of the agency aren't saying.

Only a proclamation by President Eisenhower was needed to make the proposal effective. The department announced the proposal Oct. 27 and there was general expectation at least among segments of the oil industry, that the president would issue the proclamation within a short time.

But it was not forthcoming and now the department has called a hearing for Monday to get the views of supporters and opponents of the proposal. Elmer F. Bennett, undersecretary of the interior, will conduct it.

The pending proposal calls for cutting imports by an average of 60,000 barrels, daily east of the Rocky Mountains. Imports of residual oil would not be affected.

15 MINUTES MAKES BIG DIFFERENCE

Students Like Longer Day

(From Duncan Bureau)

CHEMAINUS—High school students here are going to school longer each day.

Under a new program of classroom schedules based on a seven-day week, the school day has been lengthened by 15 minutes.

Result of the new approach to classes is that students are spending more time each day on each subject and also taking part in a wide variety of extra-curricular activities, all within the regular school day.

The seven-day cycle takes a normal school week plus two days to complete. This means students are no longer taking the same subject on the same day each week as in previous years.

In each school day there are five 55-minute periods with five-minute intermissions between and one 30-minute period, from 3 to 3.30.

During the 30-minute period students are able to take part in any three of 27 extra-curricular activities. These include drama, photography, journalism, music, and other clubs. The other four days they must spend in supervised study halls. The period is being used from time to time for assemblies, films and guest speakers.

All inter-house sports are played during the lunch hour and as a result, even with the lengthened school day, students are able to catch their buses at the usual time.

Speaking on the new program, Chemainus High School principal Don H. McKay said the staff and students alike are "enthused" about its possibilities.

"It not only permits students to spend more time on each subject and encourages them to develop good study habits, but it also helps them to make good use of leisure time," he said.
